The Impeachment Court in Secret Session--House Proceedings--American Rights in British Coast Fisheries--Ship Building--Admission of Arkansas, &c.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, May 7, 1868.

SENATE.

The Court opened at noon. There was a very small attendance in the galleries. Mr. Nelson, of counsel for the President, occupied a seat at their table.

After the reading of the journal the CHIEF JUSTICE said the doors would now be closed under the rule, unless some order was made to the contrary.

Senator HOWARD did not see any necessity for closing the doors, and hoped the order would not be executed.

Senator SUMNER raised the question of order, whether the Senate can proceed to deliberate with closed doors now, except by another vote, the Senate having resolved to sit in open session.

The CHIEF JUSTICE said he would put the question to the Senate.

Senator SHERMAN asked whether the Senator from Massachusetts proposed to act upon the pending question without debate?

Senator SUMNER replied that he had no intention of making any proposition in that respect. He simply wished what was done should be done under the rules.

The CHIEF JUSTICE, checking the discussion, said there could be no debate until the doors were closed.

The Sergeant-at Arms directed the doorkeeps to close the doors, which was done.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. WASHBURNE, Illinois, presented estimates from the War Department in reference to the deficiency of $87,000 for the administration of the reconstruction acts in the Third Military District. Ordered to be printed and referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

Mr. PIKE, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, reported a joint resolution requesting the President of the United States to send a sufficient number of vessels of war to the fishing grounds on the Gulf of St. Lawrence, adjacent to British provinces, for the purpose of protecting American vessels in the exercise of their rights, as recognized in the treaty of 1803, outside of one marine league of the shore line as it follows the indentations of the coast, and also for the purpose of taking care that valuable property in shipping shall not be confiscated for alleged infractions of provincial rights in fishing grounds, and that whatever punishment for trespass is inflicted shall be in proportion to the peculiar injury occasioned by the offence.

Mr. PIKE advocated the resolution, which grew from the fact that the Canadian Government proposes to tax American fishing vessels four dollars per ton and to send vessels of war to enforce it. In reply to an inquiry, Mr. Pike said the President already has the power, and this was but a request to use it.

Mr. BUTLER favored the resolution. The President does not propose to interfere unless there was some expression of opinion on the part of Congress. There would be no trouble arising out it.

Messrs. WASHBURNE and CHANDLER opposed the resolution.

After further debate Mr. PIKE moved the previous question.

Mr. SPALDING moved to amend to make the resolution read that the President be requested to send a sufficient number of vessels of war to the fishing grounds in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, adjacent to British provinces, for the purpose of protecting American vessels in the exercise of their rights as indicated in the existing treaties.

The previous question was seconded.

Mr. BENJAMIN moved to table the resolution.

Rejected—61 to 76.

Mr. PIKE, being entitled to the floor to close the debate, proceeded to make a speech, in which he contrasted the statistics of American shipping and commerce with the statistics of former periods, attributing the decay to the high tariff on all material entering into ship building and high taxes generally. He referred to the fact that Congress had removed taxation from the rich man—manufacturers of the country—and failed to relieve the humbler interests of the country.

Mr. MYERS desired a chance of replying.

Mr. PIKE declined to yield, stating that he was familiar from his boyhood with the argument which the gentleman desired to make. He had used that tariff argument himself ever since he had learned to talk in public. He had been an old protectionist in his day, and had tried to persuade the people that if the rich were protected the rich would protect the poor, and that if the rich manufacturers were protected, communities of poor men would grow up around the manufacturers which would receive the drizzle of protection that filtered through their rich employers. He was getting somewhat over that notion. [Laughter.] He was getting cured of that idea. He had come to think that the laws needed some reforming in that particular, and that instead of going for a higher tariff, there should be a reasonable tariff founded on reasonable principles.

Mr. MYERS expressed the hope that Mr. Pike would allow him a moment to reply.

Mr. PIKE declined.

Mr. MYERS—The gentleman is afraid to yield.

To this remark Mr. PIKE retorted something only heard in his immediate vicinity.

Mr. SCHOFIELD laughingly called him to order.

Why, said Mr. PIKE, remonstratively, he called me a coward and I have a right to retort.

Mr. MYERS inquired what the remark was?

The SPEAKER replied that he had not heard it.

Some member suggested (in fun) the words be taken down.

Mr. PIKE remarked that Mr. Myers ought not to say he was afraid to meet him in debate. He then went on to say the decay of American shipping was caused by a tariff. It cost two dollars to build a vessel in American ports where it costs but one in English ports. It costs one hundred thousand dollars to set a thousand ton ship afloat in New York, and but fifty thousand dollars to set her afloat in Liverpool. There's the reason.

Mr. MILLER inquired whether Mr. Pike was in favor of free trade in building vessels?

Mr. PIKE—I have stated my proposition clearly. We must have articles that go into ships free of duty or we cannot build ships. If it be an object to build ships in this country you must allow ship builders to have their materials free.

Mr. ELDRIDGE remarked that he understood the gentleman from Maine to be talking very much like a western man.

Mr. PIKE declined to yield for any comments on his speech.

Mr. ELDRIDGE said that he understood the gentleman to be expressing himself in favor of free trade, but he wished to enquire if free trade were good for people of New England in building ships, it was also good for the laboring masses of the West in regard to articles in which they lived and were clothed? Why not adopt the whole principle?

Mr. PIKE declined to go into a general tariff discussion. The remedy for the evil which he had pointed out was not in purchasing vessels. No country could exist in that way.

Mr. SPALDING'S amendment was agreed to and the joint resolution, as modified, passed—92 against 39.

Mr. GRISWOLD was excused from service in the Washburne-Donnelly investigation Committee.

Subsequently the SPEAKER announced he had appointed Messrs. Jencks and Pomeroy on the Committee, vice Messrs. Banks and Griswold.

Mr. ROBINSON, as a question of privilege, offered a resolution that the resolution adopted by the House on the 24th of February last, that Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors in office, be expunged from the journal of the House, because the passage of said resolution was strictly a party measure, of evil example.

The SPEAKER said the resolution was not a question of privilege, as privilege to amend the journal ceased with the expiration of the day when the journal was made up.

Mr. ROBINSON said he would bring it up again, and it would be adopted, either by this House or the next one. It is a mere matter of time.

Mr. STEVENS, from the Committee on Reconstruction, reported a bill, that whereas the people of Arkansas have adopted a Constitution of State Government republican in form, and duly ratified the fourteenth amendment of the Constitution, it is hereby enacted that the State of Arkansas is entitled and admitted to representation in Congress as one of the States of the Union, upon the following fundamental condition: That the Constitution of Arkansas shall not be so amended or changed to deprive any citizen or class of citizens of the right to vote who are entitled to vote by the Constitution herein recognized, except as a punishment for such crimes as are now felonies at common law, whereof he shall have been duly convicted. Ordered to be printed and recommitted.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the bill to prevent the further sale of lands of the United States, except as provided for in the pre-emption and homestead laws, and laws for disposing of town sites and mineral lands.

Messrs. DRIGGS and BLAIR spoke in opposition thereto and Mr. DONNELLY in its favor.

Mr. LAWRENCE, Ohio, offered an amendment to the bill.

Adjourned.

Arkansas.

The official returns give the Constitution a majority of 1,645. The Republican State ticket has a majority considerably in excess of these figures. In accordance with the provisions of the new Constitution, the Governor of the State holds his office for four years. He appoints Supreme Court Judges for eight years, Circuit Court Judges for four years, and District Attorneys and an Internal Improvement Commission for the same period. The Constitution provides for a Registry Law, and disfranchises many of the late insurgents. The Legislature is now in session, and has already enacted several laws of a radical character. It is estimated that 38,000 citizens of the State lost their lives during the rebellion.

THE South Carolina Legislature assembles on the 12th. The Philadelphia Inquirer says:

South Carolina was the leader in the rebellion. In that State secession commenced when the Democratic National Convention split into fragments on the 23d of April, 1860, by the secession of the delegates from the slave States. The first ordinance of secession in the South was passed in South Carolina on the 20th of December of that year, and on that day the Charleston Mercury, in glad extravagance, printed its extras and sent them by mail over the United States, with the words, "The ordinance of secession was passed by the Convention today. The Union is dissolved." And now South Carolina, with the memories of Sumter brooding over her, will be the first reconstructed State in the South, governed by officers elected by impartial suffrage, and rejoicing in a Constitution as liberal as any in the country.

MILES O'REILEY, speaking for the War Democrats, disclaims all sympathy with or respect for Pendleton and his repudiation and surrender principles, and threatens most unequivocally to bolt if he should be nominated. "The War Democrats," says he, "are only retained in the ranks of an organization that has outraged patriotism for so many years, with the slightest link of association," and "they will never help, directly or indirectly, by assertion or silence, by action or idleness, the election of the ultra Copperhead and false-hearted Northerner, Geo. H. Pendleton."

On the other hand, the Peace Democracy are equally severe on Gen. Hancock, and insist most positively that they will not vote for any man who wore epaulettes, and fortify their opinions by referring to the McClellan fiasco. To have fought for the Union, and particularly to have hurt somebody in so doing, is an unpardonable offence in the eyes of the pure and untainted Democrats of the old school. The happy family to be caged at New York next July will present an interesting study—Phila. Press.

THE Ways and Means Committee are holding daily sessions, and making rapid progress with the tax bill. They expect to have it ready to report as soon as Impeachment is disposed of. They have adopted an important amendment, imposing a tax of $5,000 on foreign commercial brokers. A proposition has been submitted to restore the ad valorem on brokers' sales on stocks, bonds and securities sold, from the fact that it will give the Government several millions additional revenue. It will probably be adopted. This tax does not bear either upon industrial or commercial interests.

THE N. Y. Times says: Mr. Johnson's use or abuse of the pardoning power has been utterly inexcusable. He has turned loose upon the country hundreds of the worst offenders without any shadow of reason and greatly to the public detriment. He may have been imposed upon and misled, but he ought by this time to have become able to guard himself against impositions of this kind. We hope he does not intend to make a general jail delivery to signalize his own departure from office.

WASHINGTON May 7, 1868.

SENATE SECRET SESSION PROCEEDINGS.

The following is the record of the proceedings of the secret session of the Senate this afternoon, which occupied about six hours:

The Chief Justice stated the unfinished business from yesterday was an order of Mr. Sumner, submitted by him on the 25th of April, as follows: "That the Senate, sitting for the trial of Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, will proceed to vote on the several articles of impeachment at twelve o'clock on the day after the close of the argument."

Mr. Morrill, Me., moved to amend the order so as to provide that when the Senate sitting to try the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, President of the States, adjourn to-day it be to Monday next at 12 o'clock, M., when the Senate shall proceed to take a vote by yeas and nays on the articles of impeachment without debate, and any Senator who may choose shall have permission to file a written opinion, to go on the record of the proceedings.

Mr. Drake moved to amend by adding after the word "permission" "at the time of giving his vote."

After debate Mr. Conkling moved the further consideration of the subject be postponed, pending which Mr. Trumbull moved to lay the subject on the table, and the question was decided in the affirmative.

Mr. Morrill, of Vermont, submitted the following:

"Ordered, When the Senate adjourn to-day it adjourn until Monday at eleven o'clock, for the purpose of deliberating on the rules of impeachment, and that on Tuesday at twelve o'clock the Senate shall proceed to vote without debate on the several articles of impeachment and each Senator be permitted to file within two days after the vote is taken his written opinion, to go on the record."

Mr. Anthony moved an amendment, that the vote be taken on or before Wednesday.

This was negatived—yeas 13, nays 37, as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Anthony, Buckalew, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Fowler, Hendricks, McCreery, Patterson, (Tenn.) Ross, Saulsbury, Sprague and Vickers—13.

Nays—Messrs. Cameron, Cattell, Chandler, Cole, Conkling, Conness, Corbett, Cragin, Drake, Edmunds, Ferry, Frelinghuysen, Harlan, Henderson, Howard, Howe, Johnston, Morgan, Morrill, (Me.) Morrill, (Vt.) Morton, Norton, Nye, Patterson, (N. H.) Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sherman, Stewart, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Willey, Williams, Wilson and Yates—37.

Mr. Sumner moved the further consideration of the subject be postponed and the Senate proceed to consider the articles of impeachment. Negatived.

Ayes—Messrs. Cameron, Conkling, Conness, Drake, Harlan, Morgan, Nye, Pomeroy, Stewart, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Williams, Wilson, Yates—15.

Nays—Messrs. Anthony, Bayard, Buckalew, Cattell, Chandler, Cole, Corbett, Craigin, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Edmunds, Ferry, Fessenden, Fowler, Frelinghuysen, Grimes, Henderson, Hendricks, Howard, Howe, Johnson, McCreery, Morrill (Me.,) Morrill (Vt.) Morton, Norton, Patterson (N. H.,) Patterson (Tenn.,) Ramsey, Ross, Saulsbury, Sherman, Sprague, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Vickers and Willey—38.

Mr. Sumner moved to amend Mr. Morrill's order by striking out the word "Monday" and to insert Saturday, as the time to which the Senate adjourn.

Negatived 16 against 36—vote the same as the previous one, except Messrs. Chandler, Cole and Howard voted yea, and Nye and Tipton voted nay.

Mr. Sumner moved to amend by striking out the following words from Mr. Morrill's order, viz: "And each Senator shall be permitted to file within two days after the vote is taken his written opinion, to go on the record."

Mr. Drake moved to further amend by striking out the above words and inserting "at the time of giving his vote," so that the fifteen minutes therein allowed for debate shall be for the whole deliberation on the final question, and not on each article of impeachment.

Negatived—12 against 38.

Yeas—Messrs. Cameron, Chandler, Conkling, Conness, Drake, Harlan, Howard, Morgan, Ramsey, Stewart, Snmner, Thayer.

Not voting—Messrs. Tipton and Pomeroy.

The question was taken on Mr. Sumner's motion and it was negatived—6 to 42.

The yeas were: Messrs. Drake, Harlan, Ramsey, Stewart, Sumner and Thayer.

Not voting—Messrs. Anthony, Conness, Cragin, Conkling and Nye.

Mr. Morrill then modified his motion to read as follows, which was agreed to.

"Ordered, That when the Senate adjourn to-day it adjourn until Monday at twelve o'clock meridan, for the purpose of deliberating on the rules of the Senate sitting on the trial of impeachment, and that on Tuesday next following, at twelve o'clock meridian, the Senate shall proceed to vote without debate on the several articles of impeachment, and each Senater shall be permitted to file, within two days after the vote is taken, his written opinion to be printed with the proceedings."

The Senate then proceeded to the consideration of the additional rule proposed by Mr. Sumner on the 10th of April, relative to the question to be put to each Senator on the final vote on the articles of impeachment.

Several amendments were proposed and finally, on motion of Mr. Johnson, the whole subject was tabled by a vote of 23 to 11.

The Chief Justice said it would place him in an embarrassing position to frame questions, and he should like to have the advice of the Senate on the subject, and would be obliged if they would adjourn until ten o'clock on Monday.

Wherenpon, on motion of Mr. Yates, the hour of meeting was fixed at ten o'clock on Monday.

The Court then adjourned.

The President pro tem resumed the Chair and the Senate adjourned till ten o'clock on Monday.

THE ARKANSAS ELECTION.

The official accounts show that according to incomplete returns received, the majority for ratification of the Constitution in Arkansas is 1,316. General Gillem says had the election been conducted in strict compliance with General Order No. 7, the adoption of the Constitution would have been indisputable; but in Pulaski county the total vote exceeds the total number registered by 1,195. This is explained by the Registers, who admit they permitted persons registered in other counties to vote on presentation of certificates of registration. There were other irregularities of votes in that county, and 730 in Jefferson, making 1,925. There are no means of ascertaining whether they were cast for or against the Constitution. Each party charged the other with fraud.

MEDICAL CONVENTION.

Dr. W. A. Baldwin, of Alabama, was elected President for the ensuing year, and Dr. Caspar Wistar, of Philadelphia, Treasurer, with a number of Vice Presidents. The present Secretary holds over.

IMPEACHMENT COURT,

It is understood the Senate has determined to adjourn as a court until Monday, and take a vote on Tuesday. Members will be allowed to file their opinions.

CUSTOMS RECEIPTS.

The receipts of customs for the week ending April 30th, amount to $2,169,292.

REGISTRATION.

Registration is completed. Total 10,254 whites, 6,737 colored.

METHODISM.

Methodist Episcopal Conference at Chicago—Quadrennial Session.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, May 7.—The Conference assembled at the usual hour, Bishop Kingsley in the chair.

The quadrennial report of the General Missionary Committee shows the aggregate contributions to be $2,511,438.59. This amount was appropriated as follows: Liberia, $58,855; South America, $79,870; China, $84,725; Germany and Switzerland, $114,986; Scandinavia, $77,728.24; India, $218,894.83; Bulgaria, $20,825.48; Mexico and Central America, $10,000; American domestic missions, $11,822; missions of third class, including missions in Southern territory, $423,646.17; miscellaneous, $552,224.87.

Rev. Dr. Porter, of N. J., from Committee on Expenses of Delegates, reported in part, recommending that only railroad fares and actual expenses incurred in travel be allowed.

After considerable discussion the report was amended and adopted.

The order of the day was then taken up, being the report of the Special Committee on the reception of the southern delegates.

Dr. Curry paid an earnest tribute to the heroic toils and sacrifices of the brethren who stand knocking for admission into this body. His personal relations with these men were of the most pleasant nature, but he had endeavored to consider the question in its legal aspects. It was a new question entirely and Conference was about to establish a precedent for all time, the importance of which should outweigh all personal considerations. He then proceeded to give a succinct history of the organization of these Conferences, claiming that they were clearly Mission Conferences, with somewhat peculiar relations to this body, not including the right of representation in this body.

As the speaker here intimated that he was expressing the views of the special committee, he was interrupted by Dr. Reid and Dr. E. O. Haven, of the Committee, who insisted that nothing had been agreed upon in the Committee, except the items reported yesterday, and that their views of the relations of these mission bodies differed materially from those of the speaker.

Dr. Curry resumed reading from the official report of the last General Conference to show that in the organization of these bodies in the South it was clearly understood that they were not to be entitled to representation here until fully invested with all the powers of annual Conferences. The Doctor, while speaking on the powers of the General Conference, remarked that it had no power to change its own constituency, which was understood to be a declaration against the legality of the admission of laymen.

At the close of Dr. Curry's speech, the hour of adjournment having arrived, the subject was laid on the table and made the order for to-morrow, Dr. Harper being entitled to the floor.

VIRGINIA.

Republican State Convention—Convention of Conservatives—Saldiers and Sailors.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

RICHMOND, May 7.—The Republican Convention nominated A. M. Crane, of Winchester, for Congressman at large, and Geo. W. Booker, of Henry county, for Attorney General, Geo. Teaman, a negro, J. H. Platt, John Hawxhurst and Chas. Whittlesey were appointed delegates to the Chicago Convention.

A preamble and resolutions were adopted. The preamble pledges the State to pay her honest debts. The resolutions say the Government owes it to Virginia to promptly admit her when the reconstruction acts are complied with, assert the equality of all men in their rights, set forth the advantages of the new Constitution, endorse the necessity of free schools for all, pledge the party to the use of all efforts in accordance with the principles of the reconstruction laws for the removal of political disabilities from those who participated in rebellion, urge the speedy payment by the United States of the losses of loyal citizens during the war, endorses impeachment heartily and General Grant for President and Wilson, of Massachusetts, for Vice President. Tumultuous cheering followed the reading of the two last resolutions. A motion to insert Wade's name in place of Wilson's was defeated. Hunnicutt made a speech promising to support the nominees.

Adjourned sine die.

The Conservative Convention met to-day. Sixty-three counties were represented. Owing to a railroad accident none of the delegates of the southwestern counties arrived. Hon. John B. Baldwin, of Augusta, was chosen President. In a speech he said the Convention had assembled to try and save the life of Virginia, by defeating a constitution which was a galling disgrace.

After appointing Committees the Convention adjourned till to-night.

RICHMOND, May 7.—The Conservative Convention to-night adopted the following resolutions: That candidates be selected who are true to the honor of Virginia and without reference to their ability to take the iron clad oath; also, authorizing the appointment of delegates to the National Democratic Convention.

Several names were then put in nomination, including A. H. H. Stewart, Robert E. Withers and others. Without balloting the Convention adjourned until to-morrow.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' Convention today appointed twenty delegates to the Chicago Convention, and endorsed the nomination of Gov. Welles and Gen. Schofield's administration of affairs in Virginia.

English Parliament and the Irish Church—Gladstone's Resolves Adopted.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

GREAT BRITAIN.

HOUSE OF COMMONS—THE IRISH CHURCH—MR. GLADSTONE'S RESOLVES PASSED.

LONDON, May 7.—Evening.—There was a large attendance at the session of the Commons and great interest manifested in the proceedings. Soon after the House came to order, Mr. Gladstone rose and said he proposed, after the House had acted upon the resolution relative to the Irish Church, introduced by himself, to offer a suspensory act, which should, if passed, remain in force until the first of August, 1869. He then, in a few words, proceeded to an explanation of the purport and intent of the second resolve, and moved it be put upon passage.

Mr. Gathorne Hardy said the opposition intended to destroy the Irish Church. The Ministry wished to alter it for the better, but, after the recent decision on the first resolve, would make no resistance to the succeeding one, or ask for a division on its passage.

The second resolve was then adopted.

Mr. Gladstone then moved the passage of the third resolve, and after some discussion and proposal of various amendments, nearly all of which were rejected, it was was adopted, in substance as follows:

Resolved, That an address be presented by the House to Her Majesty, the Queen, humbly praying that to prevent by legislation at this session, or by creation of new personal interests through use of the public patronage, she would be graciously pleased to place at the disposal of Parliament her interest in the temporalities of all the dignities and benefices of the Church of Ireland.

Wr. Whitebread, member for Bradford, moved a resolution to withdraw the annual grant of £30,000 to the Roman Catholics of Maynooth, and to abolish the regnum donum, the grant to the Presbyterians, after the disestablishment of the Irish Church, which was agreed to.

The Reform bill for Ireland was read a second time.

Gen. Hancock and Secretary Stanton.

The New York Herald of December 23, 1865, contained a report of Gen. Hancock's speech at a New England dinner the day previous, from which we make the following extract. The General said:

"Much credit has been given to the army, and praise without stint has been accorded by a grateful people to its Generals. We have had many Generals, among whom the honors have been divided, and whose fame will live in more enduring form than in wreathes of laurel, but during the period of our greatest perils, we have had but one Minister of War, and during his administration substantial victories crowned our arms. One who has been unequaled in furnishing the means of war and placing them in the hands of our Generals; one who rivaled Carnot in all that is accorded to him for preparation; one who never faltered, however dark the hour. And shall we not honor him? I know him to be generous and mindful of faithful service.—Among the people I predict an increasing tide of popularity in his favor, and that he will be one of those whom the country will delight to honor—Edwin M. Stanton, Secretary of War. A model for a War Minister; in momentous times, wise, firm, fruitful of resources, patriotic, incorruptible. To him a nation's gratitude is due."

Official Corruption.

Three members of the first branch of the Baltimore City Councils were expelled on Friday for receiving compensation for services in procuring the endorsement of the bonds of the Western Maryland Railroad by the City of Baltimore. The most prominent offender endeavored to justify his course on the ground that he could "lawfully receive the money if the resolution of endorsement was passed before he was offered anything;" he also argued that his trouble and the consumption of his time by the crowd of distressed contractors were just as much a commodity as a bill of goods; and further, he insisted that he had exerted no influence upon his fellow members except to state that the money was wanted to pay the poor workmen. The point that payment beforehand for legislative services constitute a bribe, while subsequent compensation is gratuity and therefore perfectly correct, requires only to be stated to bring its own refutation. The other excuses are inconsistent with the previous defence, and only show that corruption will present a bold front and attempt to defy public censure under the mask of benevolence. The City Councils of Baltimore deserve credit for placing their emphatic condemnation on these corrupt officials, and the lesson should not be lost on legislators in other latitudes.—Philadelphia Ledger.

BENEATH THE CURTAINS.

BY RICHARD HENRY STODDARD.

Beneath the heavy curtains,
My face against the pane,
I peer into the darkness,
And scan the night in vain.

The vine o'erruns the lattice,
And lies along its roof,
So thick with leaves and clusters,
It keeps the moon aloof.

By yonder pear-tree splintered
The feeble radiance falls,
But fails to pierce the branches,
Or touch the sombre walls.

No moon, no starlight gleaming—
The dark encircles me;
And, what is more annoying,
My neighbor cannot see.

She stands beneath the curtains,
Her face against the pane,
Nor knows that I am watching
For her to-night again.

—We wonder, why it is necessary that wagons should always go especially slow when crossing the street crossings? Why every one when in an especial hurry to cross Liberty street, finds a long train, which runs backwards and forwards snorting without giving any one a chance to cross, for ages of minutes? Why we always reach the street car station just after one car has gone, but as long as possible before another one is going? Why wagons always go faster when a man is trying to get in front of them?

An important Convention of the National Manufacturers' Association will be held at Cleveland on the 27th inst. It is now assured that delegations will be present from nearly all parts of the United States, and that all the manufacturing interests of the country will be represented. The Manufacturers' Association of Detroit held a meeting the other night, at which they adopted a resolution that, in view of the signal success which has crowned the efforts put forth at the National Manufacturers Convention, held at Cleveland in December last, whereby over $60,000,000 of taxes have been lifted from the manufacturing industry of the country, it is befitting that the manufacturers of the United States should sustain a national organization, with a view to secure from time to time such legislation as their respective interests and the interests of the whole country shall demand.

The Danish Government has entered into negotiations for the sale of the island of St. Croix to France. This is the largest and richest of the Danish Antilles, and contains a population of eighty thousand inhabitants. Sugar and cotton are extensively cultivated, but the principal product is rum, of which 8,600 casks are annually exported. The climate is considered unhealthy during the greater portion of the year. The island was ceded by France to Denmark on consideration that the latter, if ever desirous of reselling, should give the former the first opportunity of purchasing.

CENTRAL LIVE-STOCK MARKET.

OFFICE OF PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, May 7, 1868.

CATTLE.

The operations in cattle have again been very light during the past week, the sales in the aggregate being insignificant, but we still entertain hopes that an improvement is near at hand. There is rather more inquiry for stockers, but farmers, when it comes to buying, want to do so at very low figures, while on the other hand, if they have an article to sell, they want and generally obtain the last farthing that is in it—of course there are exceptions. The class of cattle just referred to may be quoted at 5 to 6c, as to quality and condition, and possibly nice 1,000 lb steers would bring 6½c. For fat cattle there are but few buyers at these yards, and the offerings are exceedingly light; we quote at 7½c to 8c, for good to prime, and 8½ to 9c for extra. We look for grass cattle in market in the course of a few weeks, and then, unless we are greatly deceived, prices will recede materially, and the sooner the better for all concerned, unless it is the farmer. Neither drovers or butchers can make anything at present prices, and we are sure that people, especially the poorer classes, cannot afford to eat much meat.

SHEEP.

There has been a very fair demand for prime fat mutton Sheep, but poor and inferior grades are not wanted scarcely at any price; prime fat clipped Sheep may be quoted at 6 to 6½c; and extra at 7c; and about all of this kind that offered were sold at the quotations above noted. The demand, as has been the case for some months past, is mainly for Philadelphia, though a considerable number are taken almost every week for New York. It is really wonderful how prices are susiained, notwithstanding the country is reported full of Sheep, though the inflated values of both Cattle and Hogs has considerable to do with it.

Rivers and Weather.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, May 7.—Weather wet and very cold.

LOUISVILLE, May 7.—The river is rising very fast, with nine feet eight inches water in the canal. Weather cool and showery.

RIVER NEWS.

Both rivers continue to swell steadily at this point with eleven feet four inches in the Allegheny and twelve in the Monongahela. We had another heavy rain storm on Wednesday night, which, with what fell yesterday will doubtless cause a big rain—we should not be surprised to see fifteen or sixteen feet before it commences to recede again.

We have no arrivals to report aside from the regular packets. The St. Charles would arrive last evening, and she will leave again to-day at 5 p. m.

The J. N. McCullough left for Cincinnati on time with a fair freight list, and a large number of passengers. We understand that she had engagements below.

The New State, Capt. Harrison, finding it necessary to make some repairs, will not get off for Cincinnati and Louisville until to-morrow.

The St. Charles, Capt. Chas. A. Dravo, with Capt. Andrew Robinson, Jr., in the office, is the regular packet for Cincinnati to-day, leaving promptly at 5 p. m. The St. Charles has become a fixed institution in in the Cincinnati packet trade, and we hope she will receive, as she deserves, a good trip.

On Tuesday night the towboat Diamond stuck two barges and a fuel boat on Lime Island. She took the remainder of her tow to Wheeling, and immediately returned to get off the boats that had been stuck, which she succeeded in effecting yesterday morning at 5 o'clock.

The towboats Ajax, Boaz, Stella, Ella, Dick Fulton and Grand Lake, will get off to-day and to-morrow. The coal towed by these boats is mostly destined for New Orleans. The Bengal Tiger left yesterday forenoon for Louisville, with ten barges and about 118,000 bushels of coal. The above named boats will take away about 904,000 bushels of coal.

The Allegheny river was rising slowly at Oil City yesterday with three feet in the channel.

The Argosy, Capt. Vandergrift, is the Saturday packet for Cincinnati, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind.

There are forty-eight steamboats in the Upper Missouri trade this season.

The new steamboat just built at Vinton, for navigating the Ceder, left there recently with wheat for Cedar Rapids.

A Cairo correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial furnishes the following: The Milbrey passed on Saturday morning, entirely light, for parts unknown. She has been in the hands of the Sheriff at Paducah who released her on the 1st of May, for the purpose of giving the cholars of the Sabbath schools an excursion. In the night after the party returned, and while there was yet some steam left in the boilers, her captain let her go and started eagerly in search of a warmer and more congenial climate. The United States Marshal passed through upon her track on Saturday evening. The Mayflower has entered the Cairo and Nashville packet trade, in opposition to the line already running. Capt. Josh. Throop is commanding, with Ben. Egan, late agent of the opposition line, in the office. Lively times in the Cumberland river are expected.

A Louisville telegram, under date of Tuesday, says: A freshet in the rivers appear more imminent than at any previous time this year. The persistent rains along the course of the upper streams have added a great volume to the already deep water, and consequently we hear of towns inundated on the Upper Mississippi, rapid swelling and threatening danger along the Illinois.

We clip the following items from the Cincinnati Gazette of Wednesday: Five gamblers yesterday went aboard the steamer Abeona, to take passage for Lawrenceburg. Capt. Patterson says they offered him one hundred dollars for their passage, which he refused. The passengers on several boats have recently been fleeced by these gentry, and the Captain, having a knowledge of this fact, refused to receive them on board. Steamboat officers and passengers should beware of them.

The Lawrence went on the marine railway yesterday, for repairs.

The Leonidas arrived from St. Louis, yesterday, and lay here all day to receive new breeching. She will proceed to Pittsburgh to-day. She received 1,528 sacks wheat for Pittsburgh from the Rob Roy.

The propeller "Come and See Me" arrived from Zanesville yesterday direct, with 10,000 gallons stoneware, and landed below the bridge.

The Leonidas was to leave left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Wednesday, and the St. Marys on Thursday.

Many of our old citizens, says a New Orleans paper, and those connected with the steamboat and river trade twenty and twenty-five years ago, will probably recollect the Messrs. Fritz Bros., grocers and steamboat agents, on Tchoupitoulas street, largely interested in the Memphis and New Orleans trade, owning one or two fine boats at that day. One of them, Captain, went to California, and, from all accounts, prospered. The last information from the old Captain is contained in an extract of his will, published in a New York paper, in which he bequeathed $20,000 to the National Treasury toward paying off the national debt, in consideration of the fact that he was not able, through age, to render the Government any service during the late rebellion.

The Hannibal Courier tells us of a robbery that took place on the Andy Johnson on her last trip up but one. Seven persons were robbed of money to the amount of $700. The staterooms were entered from the ouside and chloroform administered to the victims. The thieves escaped at Clarkville, Mo., and the losers got off at Hannibal and started back with an officer to secure the scamps. One of the losers was the losers was the Rev. Mr. Candee, of Galesburg.

SECURITY AND COMFORT FOR THE TRAVELING COMMUNITY.

J. B. HARRIS' SAFETY FIRE JACKET,

Car Heater and Moderator,

For SMOKE AND HOT AIR FLUES, dispensing with the use of Stoves and Fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cars to which the Jacket may be attached.

Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be applied to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended. It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues, or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto. I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, factories, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c., wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desired. I will sell, on application, rights to manufacture or to use the above invention; also, territorial rights, to such as may wish to engage in selling privileges, either by State or county.

GOLD closed yesterday in New York at 139⅝.

THE Republicans of New Hampshire, in Convention on the 5th appointed delegates to Chicago, instructing them for GRANT. Resolutions were also adopted sustaining the impeachment.

IT IS REPORTED that the citizens of Philadelphia find that their inability to sustain a profitable or even a self-supporting line of ocean steamships, has become a habit so chronic as to be hopeless of any improvement. They find it less expensive to transact their maratime business through the convenient channels of New York and Balmore.

THE case of the Buffalo and State Line Railroad and the Erie and Northeast Railroad vs. the Erie and Pittsburgh Railroad, which was argued in the United States Circuit Court in December last, is to be reargued at Williamsport on the 16th of June next. The case is an important one, as it involves the control of the Erie and Pittsburgh Railroad.

THE interest of Col. A. K. MCCLURE in the Chambersburg Repository, one of the ablest Republican journals in the State, has been disposed of to Messrs. JERE. COOK and S. W. HAYS, young gentlemen of decided literary ability, and members of the Franklin county bar. Col. MCCLURE is followed in his retirement from editorial duties with the best wishes of friends throughout the entire Commonwealth. We wish his successors a large measure of prosperity.

THE SENATE transacted no public business yesterday, going into secret session as soon as it convened. We have no information as to its progress in deliberations upon the great issues which have engrossed public interest for nearly two months past. It is doubtful if this tribunal will declare any judgment before the week closes, but all speculations, either as to the nature of the verdict or the date of its announcement, are simply vague conjecture. The country will know what it has a right to expect, and we have an unshaken confidence that this expectation will be realized.

THE GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC is perfecting its organization for effective service in the campaign. These soldiers will not permit the welfare of the Union to be endangered by the restoration of disloyal men to political power, if it can be lawfully prevented by their patriotic efforts. The principles for which they once freely exposed their lives, are even yet imperilled by the intrigues of the enemies of a Constitutional government, and these soldiers still rally around the flag, relying now upon the ballot in place of the bullet. We print elsewhere the organization of their State Central Committee, and heartily welcome the organization to an effective alliance against the common enemy.

OPERATIVES in various trades in the country are much disquieted, and an unusual number of "strikes" are reported. Some 1500 coal miners are "out," at Mineral Ridge, Ohio, with no prospect of an early return to work. There is trouble in the iron-mills at Youngstown and Duncannon. In New York, the bricklayers struck for $5 per day, and got it; the hod-carriers also got 25 cents additional. The house-carpenters and joiners want their $3.50 increased to $4, and are confident of success. The masons think their $4.50 will soon be $5. The coal-heavers on the docks have struck, but have not yet gained their point. The carvers want $3.50 instead of $3. The journeymen-bakers, coopers, lumber-handlers and several other classes of labor also demand a similar advance, and have either struck, or contemplate a turn-out if their demands are not acceded to.

"PETROLEUM" does not like our suggestion that a new Eastern route, via the Allegheny Valley Railway and an independent connection thence to the seaboard, might furnish to the business men of Pittsburgh the healthful competition in freights which they have considered essential to their interests. His objection is certainly worthy of consideration, in view of the magnitude of the petroleum interest at this point. A very large capital is invested here in the business of preparing crude petroleum for the markets of the world. The profits attending the business are not large, and any additional burthens imposed upon the trade might have seriously injurious results. The shrewd and far-sighted men who are especially interested will give due consideration to this important question, and will not be caught in any trap if they know it.

A word more: none understand better than does "Petroleum" that efforts to force trade into unnatural channels, or to exclude the traffic of the country from those channels which invite it by their superior advantages, are, in the long run, invariably futile and disastrous. The business interests of this city will prosper in any special department just so long as they command the elements of skill, capital, position and connections, and no longer. When the material progress of the country developes superior advantages elsewhere, our own industry applies itself to other new departments of production, with the same or increased prosperity. One trade is entitled to no preference over all others, and advantages which are generally desirable to the community are not likely to be neglected to suit any special interest. If the community, as a whole, should approve of the newly projected line of railway, with the benefit of its competition for our eastern business, the road will be built, and special interests would soon adapt themselves to the new situation.

OBSTRUCTIONS TO RIVER NAVIGATION.

The citizens of Pittsburgh are invited to meet on Monday evening next, to consider the dangers with which their interests, in the unobstructed navigation of the Ohio river, are threatened by the unfriendly legislation of a neighboring State. A private corporation has secured from the Legislature of Ohio, a nominal grant of authority to place impediments in this stream which if asserted as now seems probable will render its free navigation not only perilous to life and property, but, under certain conditions absolutely destructive. The prosperity of this city, and of many important interests in the vast region drained by the numerous confluents of the Ohio, and which is included within the territorial limits of New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia, is vitally threatened by this unquestionable infringement upon the inter-State rights which the Federal Constitution guarantees to all. The efforts of the intelligent and faithful opponents in Ohio to this invasion of private rights and of the common public privileges, have proved ineffectual to prevent the consummation, at Columbus, of the designs of a special monopoly, and the inhabitants of all the region watered by the upper Ohio find themselves remitted to the simple duty of protecting themselves, by constitutional and legal means, against the unjust encroachment. The remedy is in our own hands. We need only to invoke the Federal interposition, and to insist that it shall be exhibited for our protection, to ensure the effective vindication of the right of free navigation of this river. Congress should be at once memorialized, our Representatives instructed, and if need be, the Judiciary appealed to. The interests at stake should be confided to a responsible committee of citizens, with instructions to exhaust every necessary means in protecting the navigation from illegal impediments.

The river at Cincinnati, where the new bridge is proposed to be built, is about 1,200 feet wide. They are authorized by the Ohio Legislature to make the main span only 300 feet wide, and the other spans to range from 200 to 240 feet. This will require six piers in the river. If these piers are each 25 feet in width of masonry, they will occupy one-eighth of the entire water-way. The rise and fall of the river at that point is sixty feet. At a forty feet stage, the current is from six to seven miles per hour. The effect of such an amount of obstruction at a high stage of water cannot be adequately described. The entire floating commerce of the Upper Ohio is to be turned into a single 300 feet water way, in the very front of a great city which already covers the surface of the stream with craft employed in its own local business, and through this narrow channel, upon the arched surface of a current rushing with a velocity taxing the powers of the swiftest craft, the flotillas which bear the wealth of four populous and productive States, are to take the chances of destruction. Our boatmen will too often find it a very Gate of Death.

The new bridge at St. Louis is to have a span of five hundred and fifteen feet. The Covington suspension bridge has a span of one thousand and fifty-seven feet, and is elevated one hundred and three feet above low water. The two main channel-spans of the new bridge at Louisville, where, the river being twice as wide as at Cincinnati, the rise and fall are only forty feet, have a width each of three hundred and seventy feet. But there, a new canal is to be finished at the public expense and made free, so that no complaints on the score of obstruction are justified. At Paducah, one branch of Congress has authorized the construction of a bridge with three hundred feet span, but this must be defeated in the Senate. Bridges similar to that proposed at Newport, are also projected at Bellaire and Parkersburg. If these projects are all to be carried into effect, as they will be without the intervention of the Federal authority, the free navigation of the Ohio river will be practically destroyed.

Mr. ROEBLING, who has had more experience in suspension-bridges than any other living engineer, and Mr. EADS, of the St. Louis bridge, concur in declaring that for any purpose spans of 500 to 1,000 feet are safe and practicable, and that no bridge should have less than 45 feet elevation above the surface of the water. As, however, boats can lower their pipes, the question of heighth is of less importance, in comparison with the irremediable injury from permanent obstructions restricting the width of the channel.

Should it be found impracticable to secure the interposition of Congress to prevent the construction of these impediments, there remains only a final recourse to the Federal Courts, in an indictment by a Grand Jury. That such a structure would be a nuisance, and that it infringes upon the legal and constitutional rights of citizens, there would be little doubt; but the legal profession can judge better than we of the availability of this remedy. At best, this would entail a long and doubtful contest for the removal of an obstruction existing, all the maritime interests continuing to suffer until a decision could be had. Let Congress, by its timely intervention, establish proper regulations in advance, and no interest could complain of an unwarrantable invasion of a public right.

The people of the States interested in the unimpeded navigation of this National stream should insist upon protection by the Federal authority. No time should be lost in presenting this demand in the most decisive and uncompromising terms. We are all interested, citizens of Pittsburgh or dwellers in the great Valley of the Ohio, in whatever State. Boards of Trade, Steamboat Associations, Coal and Oil Exchanges, Lumber Manufacturers, and each individual citizen, we admonish you to be up and doing before it is too late.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE LIFE OF ULYSSES S. GRANT, General-in-Chief, U. S. A. By Hon. J. T. Headley. Illustrated. New York: E. B. Treat & Co.

This is a volume of 458 pages, of which 40 are devoted to the life of the eminent subject of it previously to his re-entering the army at the commencement of the rebellion, and the residue to a narration of his public services from that period down to the present time. It is not a work of depth or philosophical analysis. Such a performance is quite beyond the powers of this author. But it is a sprightly and vigorous recital of the principal events which made General Grant famous, and of his conduct therein. To a large class of readers, it will prove more acceptable than if its aim had been higher and the execution of a superior order. Designed for the masses, and consequently for those whose tastes have not been trained to the higher forms of historical writing, it has all the characteristics of Mr. Headley's other works, and will, doubtless, equal or surpass any of them in success.

General Grant rose suddenly from obscurity into the greatest distinction, and his reputation appears to be established on an enduring basis such as frequently proves to be the lot of individuals even in civil employments, and in times of profound peace. Byron truly declares that he went to bed one night, and awoke in the morning to find himself famous. In the military profession and in times of special ferment, fame is oftener achieved in a brief space than in any other department of human activity. But military fame is often transient, passing rapidly under permanent eclipse. Examples of this sort were furnished during the progress of our late war.

The growth of General GRANT'S reputation, while rapid, was remarkably uniform. In only one instance did he fail to satisfy public expectation, or the reasonable demands of the Government. Perhaps he owed something to the inferiority of most of his competitors; for it must be confessed that many of the loyal commanders failed lamentably. But, in this respect, he only shared the ordinary lot of great captains. Genius is a rare quality in any calling, and marks its possessor with an unmistakeable individuality. But, so far, war has developed only a very small number of leaders of first-rate capacities. The whole of them can be counted on the fingers of one hand; and General GRANT clearly does not fall into this category. He belongs, rather, to the second class—not with Cæsar, but with Hannibal; not with Napoleon, but with Wellington. He has talent, instead of genius; and that not of a brilliant sort, but of a solid and serviceable description. His capacities are not so much for show as for use; and, hence, he attracts more by results actually attained through patient and persistent working, than by novelty or originality in his methods and instrumentalities.

Gen. GRANT is not demonstrative. Cold, reticent, methodical, he resorts to none of those glaring expedients to which men of even real parts, but differently constituted, not unfrequently have recourse. He is precisely what he seems to be. Vaunting nothing, he is content to be judged, calmly and critically, by what he does. Possessing himself in the fullest degree; that is, having all his capacities and passions under absolute control, he knows how to wait, to rest under misconstruction, if need be, to abide the natural progress of events, and to make his intentions and principles known, not through idle professions, but through enduring deeds.

Hence, the peculiar feeling of most loyal citizens towards him, which is that in whatever sphere he may be placed he is reliable; that he may be slow in avowing his purposes, but when committed to a given policy will not be shaken therefrom by difficulties or seduced by blandishments. He may, indeed, see cause to change his views and plans; but can never be guilty of a betrayal of confidence.

Unquestionably, there are men in the country who surpass him in the peculiar qualities and endowments essential to accomplished statesmanship. But, unfortunately for them, in the tumult of the times they have failed to inspire the popular regard. The most eminent of them all has failed to evince those superior intuitions by which events of greatest magnitude are foreseen and prepared for; while other reputations that had assumed colossal proportions before the drama of the rebellion opened, disappointed public expectation, entailed intense humiliation, and at last excited boundless disgust. Under such circumstances the people have turned instinctively to Gen. Grant as the proper man to fill the Presidential office during the next term. As he crowned the national cause with pre-eminent victory in the field, it is believed that under his guidance the hurts of the war may be healed, fraternal sympathies restored to the distracted country, and liberty, in the broadest signification, be secured for all classes of the population.

A TREATISE ON METEOROLOGY—With a collection of Meteorological Tables, by Elias Loomis, LL. D., Professor of Natural Philosophy and Astronomy, in Yale College, and author of a "Course of Mathematics." Published by Harper & Bros., New York. For sale by Henry Miner, Pittsburgh.

A work of this kind has long been needed in this country as a text book of the principles of Meteorology. This science has made rapid advance within a few years past and tangible results are beginniug to be seen of the benefits of the outlay to promote it. Every year it is also becoming more fully systemized. The careful noting of the weather in many of the leading cities, is proving to be of vast importance to those engaged in commercial life, in connection with the sea. In the future years when meteorological changes in all parts of the world are carefully noted, and registered, and classified and interpreted by the best scientific skill of the day, meteorology will become one of the definite sciences of the day. Prof. LOOMIS has presented the work in an admirable form for students, and at the same time, embodying the most recent facts of this science.

AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF BENJAMIN FRANKLIN. Edited from his manuscript, with notes and an introduction by John Bigelow, Published by J. B. Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia.

The name of FRANKLIN is so closely indentified with the foundation of our Government, and so familiar with every schoolboy, that the appearance of his Autobiography, edited by one so capable as Mr. BIGELOW, late Minister to France, will awaken a desire in the hearts of many to peruse it. The wise sayings of FRANKLIN, are as familiar as household words. No class of books are more popular aad more generally read than those of FRANKLIN. The charming style of this autobiography captivates the reader, and there is also a beautiful simplicity about it, that must command the homage of the thoughtful. Perhaps at no period are works of this kind so opportune as at the present. Minister BIGELOW, while in France, fortunately became the possessor of the original manuscrip and this volume is the fruit of his labor. The volume is prefaced by a fine engraving from the original picture of FRANKLIN in pastil. The work is elegantly printed and and bound.

THE CONGRESSIONAL QUESTION—22d DISTRICT.

The time is fast approaching when the Republican party of the 22d Congressional District will be called upon to present a candidate for the suffrages of the people, at the ensuing October election, as a representative of the district in the forty-first Congress.

That a district like this should be ably represented in Congress, no one will deny.

Equal in importance, however, is the question of the soundness of the representative. We have too many recent, as well as more remote examples, of the betrayal of party as well as the principles by whom and upon which men have been elevated to high and responsible positions, not to be admonished of the imperative necessity of looking well to the political soundness of those who offer themselves as candidates for Congress.

We cannot but remember the betrayal of the Republican party and its principles by a Cowan, a Doolittle, a Dixon, and, last, though not least, by a Johnson.

These reflections have been suggested by some facts which have very recently come to the knowledge of the writer of this communication in relation to the position occupied by General James S. Negley when he was a candidate for Congress two years ago.

And let it be distinctly borne in mind that what may be herein said, is said with no unkind feelings towards Gen. Negley.

It will be remembered that in 1866 Gen. Negley was a candidate for Congress in this (22d) District, in opposition to Gen. Moorhead.

In announcing himself as a candidate at that time, that announcement was made in this way:

"CONGRESS, 22D DISTRICT.

Gen. James S. Negley is a candidate for nomination."

This announcement was so very different from the manner in which other Republicans announced themselves as candidates, that it gave rise to very general comment as well as to great dissatisfaction. Other candidates announced themselves as candidates "subject to the decision of the Republican Convention," and the inquiries very naturally arose, by what convention is he a candidate for nomination? And if by the Republican Convention, is there any pledge that he will abide its decision? Will he not "bolt" if he fails to secure the nomination?

So strong, indeed, was the feeling upon this subject that in his own election district, on the day of the primary election, his immediate friends and neighbors refused to support him, unless he would give a written pledge, and that pledge to be published in the Republican papers on the succeeding Monday morning, that he would abide the decision of the Republican Nominating Convention.

This was on Saturday, August 11th, 1866. Under the pressure of this feeling General Negley wrote a letter, of which the following is a copy, as taken from the columns of the Commercial:

"John W. Riddell, Chairman Union Republican Executive Committee, Allegheny Co.:

SIR:—As some misapprehension seems to exist as to my answer to your communication of August 9th, I desire to say that I will abide the decision of the Union Republican Convention, to be held August 14th, 1866, and will hereafter, as heretofore, use my influence to advance the principles of the Union Republican party.

JAS. S. NEGLEY."

This letter was signed by Gen. Negley in the presence of a number of persons, amongst whom were George Finley, Sheriff Stewart and Samuel Caldwell, local editor of the Commercial. It was then placed in the hands of Mr. Caldwell, a copy to be taken for publication, on the following Monday morning, in the GAZETTE, Commercial and Dispatch, and the original to be handed over to the County Executive Committee.

The letter was not published on the Monday morning after it was written, but it was published on the succeeding Wednesday morning, the day upon which the nominating convention met. Upon its publication it was very generally read and as generally approved; and by none was it more highly approved than by the writer hereof.

Now, if the matter rested here, it would all be open and fair. But it is said that the transaction had a history that never met the public eye. That history appears to be this: It was ascertained on the night of Saturday, August 11, 1866, that General Moorhead had carried a large majority of the delegates in the Congressional district, and on Sunday morning, August 12, 1866, Mr. Caldwell was met by John N. Berlin, who handed him (Caldwell) a note from General Negley, of which the following is a copy:

"Dear Sir:—Please hand the paper I signed, handed you by Mr. Stewart. I prohibit its publication. J. S. NEGLEY."

Mr. Caldwell had not the letter of Gen. Negley with him at the time to deliver to Mr. Berlin, but he agreed not to publish it on Monday. But on Monday he met the chairman of the County Committee, to whom it was addressed, who demanded the letter as the property of the Committee, and it was delivered over and subsequently published as before stated.

Now the inquiry naturally arises here, why did Gen. Negley take so much trouble to secure a return of the letter of August 11, in which he pledged himself to abide the decision of the Republican Convention? and why did he peremptorily forbid its publication if he was acting in good faith with the Republican party, at the time of writing it? These are pertinent inquiries and are entitled to satisfactory answers.

Before dismissing this matter it is proper to say that I have in my possession copies of the foregoing letters of Gen. Negley, which were made by Mr. Caldwell, August 13, 1866.

But this is not all. When in the present canvass for the nomination Gen. Negley announced himself as a candidate, it was done in the same terms as his announcement in 1866. Indeed it was a literal transcript of his previous announcement, and was evidently copied from it. Here it is

"CONGRESS—XXIID DISTRICT.

Gen. Jas. S. Negley is a candidate for nomination."

So his card stood for about a month, during which time, as I am informed, he was requested to change it so as to make it accord with the usage among Republican candidates, but he refused to do so.

When approached by Mr. Ballentine, of Temperanceville, as I am informed, upon that subject, and requested to put himself right on the record, he replied that he would not do it, and those who did not like it might lump it. Nor was it until the pressure of his friends became so great upon him that he could no longer withstand it, that any change was made, and then it was done in so ungracious a manner as to inspire but little confidence in those who honestly believed that they had cause for doubts.

For example, he says in his note to the Evening Chronicle, altering his card:

"CONGRESSIONAL.

"EDITORS CHRONICLE:—Some gentlemen of great simplicity and political sensitiveness have found fault with the brevity of my card in your paper. Will you please add the formal 'Before the Union Republican Convention.' Yours truly,

JAMES S. NEGLEY."

[See Evening Chronicle of March 28, 1868.]

It may be that General Negley can afford to offer himself as a candidate for so important a position as that of Representative in Congress, while occupying this equivocal position, but can the Republican party of the District afford to accept him as its candidate without a full and satisfactory explanation of these matters?

What will constitute a satisfactory explanation, must be left to the Republicans of the District to determine. Explanations forced from a candidate by the fear of losing a nomination are certainly not the most reliable; and it is certainly to be regretted that the General should have voluntarily placed himself in a position that renders such an explanation necessary.

It will not do to say that General Negley's army record furnishes a sufficient explanation of the matters herein stated. However good that record may be, and at present I have nothing to say about it, yet it must be borne in mind that Gen. Hancock, Gen. Custer, Gen. Carey, of the Cincinnati District, as well as many others, have an army record equal, to say the least, to that of Gen. Negley; yet where is there a Republican Convention to be found that would, in view of the political record made by the Generals named, since the close of the war, be willing to accept either of them as a standard bearer of the party, in the absence of the most indubitable evidence of their abandonment of their political heresies.

As stated before, I say these things with no unkindly feelings towards Gen. Negley. But if they are true, it is due to the Republican party of the District that they should be known. If they are not true, it is due to Gen. Negley that he be afforded an opportunity to put himself right before the district.

REPUBLICAN.

A WORD FOR THE PETROLEUM INTEREST.

EDITORS GAZETTE: Your leading article yesterday upon the projected Eastern communication from Pittsburgh via the Allegheny Valley Railway, and a new line in the interest of the Fort Wayne connection, embodies suggestions which deserve the attentive consideration of our citizens. It occurs to me that the Petroleum trade of this city has an interest in the matter much deeper than appears upon the surface. We are all desirous of enjoying the benefits to enure to the trade from a healthy competition in freights, but I fear that our hopes of benefit from the new line suggested by you would prove delusive. Let a new line be constructed, diverging at Stewartstown, on the Allegheny Valley road, and opening a connection to the seaboard cities, and how much of the crude oil which now comes down this road to the refineries here, to be treated and shipped to the East, would then be directed, in its crude state, over the new eastern line? How shall we then stand as competitors, if obliged to pay freight on the crude from the diverging point to this city and full rates hence on the refined articles, either via Stewartstown or Altoona, to the coast? We caution the trade to consider well what it is doing, or, instead of grasping the advantages of a competition in carriage for its products, it may find itself competed out of existence at Pittsburgh, the weapon with which it would fight a monopoly serving effectively to knock out its own brains. For I have no doubt that a line, such as proposed in your article, shortening the total carriage from the wells to the seaboard by some one hundred and twenty miles, would be fatal to the great oil trade of this city. It is worth thinking about.

PETROLEUM.

WHAT Mr. EVARTS thinks of President JOHNSON'S course, especially with regard to reconstruction, may be inferred from his speech at Cooper Institute last October, from which the following is an extract:

"We have now undertaken affirmatively ta keep peace and order at the South by military control, and to take a vote of all the people there, except active and prominent rebels, as to whether they will conform to the rules of war, and if the Democratic party and the President had not advised resistance to that form of reconstruction, it would have been accomplished, in my judgment, by the meeting of the next Congress, and if our party stands firm and true, reconstruction complete, perfect and permanent, will have been accomplished during the existence of the present Fortieth Congress."

President Johnson Pardoning Convicts.

The pardon brokerage business is very brisk at Washington about the present time. There being no more rebels to pardon, the counterfeiters, mail robbers, postoffice robbers and illicit distillers, are occupying the exclusive attention of the President and his female co-partners in this business. Almost every paper we open announces the pardon of some of these convicts, indicating the purpose of the President to make a gaol delivery before he is himself convicted of manifold crimes and misdemeanors. We have noticed three announcements of pardons from the Baltimore jail and the Maryland penitentiary during the past week, and the few that are still in confinement are daily expecting a safe deliverance. This business is conducted exclusively by famous females, who always have access to the White House, and if there were no other reasons for removing the present incumbent, this of itself would satisfy all honest men.—Balt. American.

BITTERS.

The human stomach seems to require a tonic stimulant. From time whereof the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, tonic bitters have been used. Formerly men made their own bitters, and few thought of eating breakfast without first taking their "tansy." Those were days, however, when prohibitory laws were unknown, and, in consequence, liquors were pure. Dealers could then afford to be honest and sell nothing but the unadulterated. Now, however, with government tax and court fines, poke-berry juice and alcohol must pass muster for "old rye" and "pure bourbon." People have come to fear poisoning more than malarial diseases and dropped their "tansy." Right here is where HOSTETTER & SMITH, of Pittsburgh, have proven benefactors. Years ago they commenced the manufacture of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, laying it down as a rule, that has since been conscientiously followed, to use nothing but the purest liquors, manufactured expressly for them. By strict adherence to this rule they have won public confidence and reaped their reward in a large, profitable and steady business. Their BITTERS is known all over the country. They are the pioneers of the business, and have the largest manufactory in the world. Nor has success in their case, as in too many instances, rendered them careless; their BITTERS is as pure and good to-day as was the first distillation. We heartily recommend them as a tonic.

As a specific for dyspepsia, biliousness, constipation, nervousness, general debility, and remittent and intermittent fevers its efficacy has never been questioned.

There are many worthless imitations; we earnestly caution the public against them.

ANOTHER CURE OF DEAFNESS.

I lost my hearing during the last year. Part of the time I was totally deaf. In April of this year I was induced, from an advertisement, to make application to DR. KEYSER, 120 Penn street, Pittsburgh. After having tried various medicines from doctors, without any benefit, I have been under Dr. Keyser's treatment now for nearly two months, and am entirely restored to my hearing, so that I can hear a pin drop.

ANOTHER CURE.

A man called to-day at Dr. Keyser's office to inform him of a great cure made by his LUNG CURE, or PULMONARY RESTORATIVE. Hist these cures are made with the Doctor's preparations, he desires it to be distinctly understood that most of his great cures are made in accordance with the established laws that govern the science of medicine, in which he has been engaged for the past twenty-five years. Last week he was also in receipt of a letter from a clergyman in the State of Ohio, detailing another most wonderful cure.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, May 7, 1868.

Gold, under the excitement of the unsettled state of the impeachment question, was held very firm to-day at 139¾ to 139⅞, closing at the inside figure. There is a disposition among timid people to hold gold for higher quotations, although speculators are not yet disposed to buy largely. The impression among the more conservative men in Wall street that the effect of a conviction of the President will be temporary, and the prices of neither gold nor Government securities will suffer any material change. In bonds there was more inquiry for old Five-Twenties of 1862 and 1861, and Consols, which were quoted a shade lower than other descriptions. Seven-Thirties keep down since the Assistant Treasurer buys but very limited amounts at a trifle below the street quotations. It was generally expected that after the May payments there would be a general rise in Government bonds, but the market for money has been stiff at seven per cent. for call loans, so there is little inducement to buy. The payment of the May compound interest notes, however, will increase the amount of the assets of National banks to the amount of 19 40-100 per cent. on their compound interest notes held as reserve, which enables them to expand their loans over five million dollars, and cause an easy money market.

In Railroad stocks there was a firm feeling manifested to hold on for higher prices. All the Western shares advanced yesterday, and were well sustained to-day, and some of the Express shares have improved; also, Quicksilver.

Money is firmer here with but little offering to invest except in small amounts. Business keeps up rather lively, and with the rise in the Allegheny River, a brisk time is expected at the Allegheny wharf.

Closing quotations as received by Ph. R. Mertz, were as follows:

Gold, 139¼; 1881 bonds, 113¼; 1862 5-20s, 108⅛; 1864 do, 106⅜; 1865 do, 107; Consols, 109; 10-40s, 103; 7-30s, 107¾.

Railroads—Cleveland & Pittsburgh, 84½; Fort Wayne, 106; North Western, common 66; North Western—preferred, 76¾; New York Central, 128⅜; Erie, 70¼; Old Southern, 84⅛; Ohio & Mississippi, 31⅛; Merchants Union Express, 32; Western Union Telegraph, 37¾. Mining Shares—Corydon, 28; Quartz Hill, 90; Quicksilver, 32.

—A New York paper of Tuesday says: H. J. Messenger, banker, No. 22 Nassau street, has this morning notified his creditors that he is unable to meet his payments. Mr. Messenger has had extensive connections with the interior of the State, and his failure is said to have arisen from his having, for some time past, "carried" certain houses in the grain trade. He is president of the Bank of Ontario, Canandaigue, of the Bank of Canton, and of H. J. Messenger's Bank at Cortland, all State institutions. Usually, Mr. Messenger has held a large amount of private deposits.

—The Chicago Tribune, of Wednesday, reports money matters in this city as follows: There was rather more animation in financial circles to-day, and the demand for money was lower, growing out of the increased speculative movement and upward tendency in the grain markets. There was also more commercial paper offering, and, generally speaking, the feeling at the banks was better than it has been at any time within the past wesk or ten days. Money continues easy, and borrowers in good standing experience no difficulty whatever in negotiating loans. On call the market is dull at 7 to 8 per cent. on Governments. On miscellaneous produce collaterals there is no change in the rate.

The same paper also says: The whisky "ring" has recently acquired some new devices for escaping the so-called vigilance of the officers. Alcohol is being daily imported into this city from New York in tin cans holding from five to ten gallons each. These are built almost square, and fitted closely in a packing box. The entire package is then shipped as hardware. Another way is to make "slack" casks, into which a whisky barrel will snugly fit. The inner barrel is filled with alcohol, then placed in the "cask" and the package marked "hinges" or "cutlery." This contraband alcohol is selling at $3 to $3,25 per gallon, which is lower than the illicit manufactures in the neighborhood can afford take. Hence the local business in alcohol is exceedingly limited. The "ring" and the revenue officers should come to an understanding. The latter ought not to ask more than their brethren in inquiry do at the oast.

Chicago Cattle Market.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, May 21.—Beef cattle firm and more active, and 15a20c higher; $5,25a8,65 for light stock and butcher's cows to good shipping beeves.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, May 7, 1868.

The general markets are firm and fairly active, there being a fair volume of business, in the aggregate, but with the exception of Grain, which is considerably excited and tending upward, there are no important changes in prices.

ASHES—Firm but unchanged; sales of Soda at 4½c for common, and 5½c for refined. Pearls at 11c.

APPLES—Firm but unchanged; sales in a regular way at $6 to $7 per bbl, as to quality.

BUTTER—Continues to arrive pretty freely, and, as a consequence, the market is weak, with a drooping tendency; sales of prime to choice Roli at 33 to 35c.

EGGS—Cannot be fairly quoted above 20c, under the influence of liberal receipts.

HAY—Is quiet and unchanged; sales from country wagons at $20 to $25 per ton.

GRAIN—Winter Wheat is scarce and firm; sale of 400 bushels prime Penna Red at $2,75. Corn is held firmly, and the supply is light; sales on wharf and track at $1,08 to $1,10. Oats, also, is very firm but not quotably higher; sales on wharf and track at 80c, and in store at 83 to 85c. Rye is scarce and firm at $2 to $2,10. No Barley in market; last sale reported was at $2,50.

DRIED FRUIT—Is firm, with an improved demand; regular sales of Apples at 7 to 7¼c, and Peaches at 13 to 13½c, as to quality.

MILL FEED—Sale of Bran reported at $1,70, and Middlings at $2,15 to $2,20.

POTATOES—Peach Blows are firm at $1,50 per bushel. Jersey Sweets in better supply and a little easier, but unchanged at $8,50 to $9 per bbl.

BEANS—Scarce and in good demand but unchanged at $4,50 to $5 per bushel, as to quality.

HOMINY—Is quiet and unchanged; sales in a regular way at $6,25 per bbl.

FLOUR—The market is firm and somewhat excited, but under the influence of liberal receipts, prices are unchanged, though very firm. We continue to quote at $11 to $11,75 for Spring Wheat; $12,25 to $12,75 for Winter Wheat, and $14 to $16 for fancy brands. Rye Flour firm at $10.

LARD OIL—Is firm but unchanged at $1,25 to $1,30 for No. 2, and $1,55 for No. 1.

SEEDS—very quiet; scarcely enough doing to establish quotations.

PROVISIONS—Bacon is firm, with a regular jobbing demand but unchanged; 14½ to 14¾c for Shoulders; 17 to 19c for Ribbed and Clear Sides; 20c to 20½c for Plain Sugar Cured Hams, and 21c to 01½c for Canvassed do. Lard, 20c, in tierces, and 21c, in kegs. Mess Pork, $29,50 for old, and $30 for new. Dried Beef, 23 to 24.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, THURSDAY, May 7, 1868.

CRUDE—The market was unusually quiet to-day, and some dealers reported it a little weak, while others were unable to discern any change, though it was evident to all that the sales were very light. For delivery on first water there were offers to sell at 11¾c, and we have a sale of spot oil at 12c, which was considered a little above the market; one party assured us that he had been trying to sell all day at that figure without finding a buyer. The sales were as follows: 1,000 bbls for May or June, seller's option, at 11¾c; 500 spot at 12c, and 2,000 to be delivered between now and December first, seller's optton, at 10½. An Oil City telegram reports the market quiet but firm at $4 on the creek, and holders asking $4,50 at that place.

REFINED—There was little or nothing done in bonded oil, comparatively speaking, but three sales reported: 500 each from July to December inclusive, at 31c; 500 last half of May at 30¾c, and 750 bbls prime light straw to white, on spot, at 29c. We are cognizant of an offer to sell June and July together at 30½c, without meeting with any response. May is quoted at 30½c to 31c—nominally, and all the year, buyer's option, at 32½c. One thing that tended to retard business was the fact that the telegraph lines were out of order in the afternoon, and quite a number of messages up to last accounts had failed to get through.

ARRIVALS—The arrivals of oil by river and rail reported to-day were as follows:

Lockhart & Frew.	1200	Clark & S.	400

Chicago Market.

[By Telegraph to Pittsburgh Gazette.]

CHICAGO, May 7.—Flour quiet and unchanged, at $9,50a11,00 for extra. Wheat less active; No. 1 unchanged; No. 2 declined 2a3c, closing quiet at $2,10½ since the change; sales No. 2 at $2,10 cash. Corn firmer and 1a1½c higher; the demand is principally for No. 1, which opened at 98¼a99c, fell back to 96½c and closed firm at 97c; sales of No. 2 at 95a97c, new at 95a96c and rejected at 93a95½c. Oats less active and ¼alc higher, closing with sellers at 71¼a72c. Rye quiet; light sales of No. 1 at $1,80. Barley dull; the demand is almost exclusively for sample lots. Provisions firmer. New York Dry Goods Market.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, May 7.—The decline in certain styles of Calicoes and heavy brown Sheetings yesterday has become more general to-day, and has led to some improvement in the trade, although the market is still dull and depressed enough. A line of Lawrence C, heavy brown Sheetings have been closed out at 16½c, but the other leading makes are steady at 17½a18c. Amoskeag prints are down to 12½c—4 per cent. off for ten days, but printers assert it costs 15¾ to put the goods upon the market. Lowell are reduced to 11c, Wamsutta to 10c, and Pacific Delaines have fallen to 16c, but the decline in prices here noted is chiefly in light unseasonable styles, which have to be closed out very soon or not at all, and consequently does not affect the general market, for it is expected prices must recover as soon as the demand becomes more animated.

The Pittsburgh Gazette.

A Relic of Southern Barbarism.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Chronicle, writing from Chillicothe, Ohio, says:

Coming out over the Marietta and Cincinnati road, on the evening of the 22d, with Conductor Rardin, I had the good luck to fall in company with Messrs. J. N. Wright and S. M. McMahill, of Greenfield, Ohio. We had been talking but a few minutes when the conversation turned upon the condition of affairs in the South. The operation of the Ku Klux Klan, the prevailing rebel preference of Andy Johnson and Brick Pomeroy for President and Vice President, &c., &c., were freely and radically discussed. These topics naturally elicited sundry parenthetical comments on Southern character, and in the course of ono of these Mr. McMahill happened to remember that he had in his pocket a relic of the barbarism exhibited by the F. F. V's towards John Brown and his confederates; and, producing his pocket-book, took from that receptacle a small piece of well-finished leather of remarkable fineness of texture. "That," said he, "is a piece of the tanned skin of Oliver P. Brown, son of the famous John Brown." "Can it be possible?" asked an excited bystander. A full explanation was of course, immediately demanded, which I here present, as substantially given by Mr. McMahill, whose reputation for truth and veracity stand unimpeached by any who know him:

During the action in which John Brown and his little abolition band was captured by the Virginians, Oliver P. Brown was shot dead on the railroad track, near the United States Arsenal, at Harper's Ferry. So soon as killed he was taken up, put into a box and shipped to the Medical Institute at Winchester, Va., to be used in the promotion of the professional training of Southern Esculapians. Upon the reception of the body the students of that school took off the hide somewhat after the manner of skinning a beef, tanned it, and had it manufactured into moccasins, which, in the most truly chivalric style, they delighted to use as ornaments to their "blooded" pedal extremities on all public occasions.

The piece shown by Mr. McMahill was a scrap left from the cutting of these "Yankee-skin" slippers, and was procured in 1860, at the Winchester Medical Institute, by Mr. McMahill, while he was visiting some relatives in the vicinity of that place. It was voluntarily presented to him by one of the students, who, after a triumphant parade of the slippers, and a bloviating description of the processes by which they were produced, heroically exclaimed, "That's the way we se've you d—d Yankees when ye come 'mongst us an' don't walk afteh ouh style!"

The State of Southern Society.

There are certain facts which must be accepted by the people of the North, and upon these they must base all future action. They are as follows:

1. The white people will not work.
2. The blacks do not display a very great amount of industry, though in this respect they are superior to the "dominant race."
3. The chief occupation of all these is politics.
4. An inveterate enmity exists between the whites and the blacks, and they will not affiliate to an extent greater than is absolutely necessary.
5. Every man here wants every one else to work for him, and the chief study of all classes is how to live at some other man's expense.
6. However chivalrous the Southern people may be, their chivalry does not prevent them from begging alms from the Northern people they profess not only to hate but to despise.

These are the facts which must be accepted, and, altogether, then, it would be well to act from the standpoint they form.—Correspondence Cincinnati Commercial.

Interesting to the Wool-Growers.

The Wool-Buyers of Ohio have just held a meeting at Cleveland. They ask in their resolutions, that the Wool-Growers, who have been instrumental in procuring the passage of a tariff that excludes from importation certain qualities or grades of wool, much needed by manufacturers, such as strictly fine, light, fancy clothing, and combing wools, give their attention to the production of these grades, in order that the wants of the manufacturers may be supplied. The importance and profit to producers of paying more attention to the production of the coarser grades of wool, was especially urged. It was asserted that they cannot be obtained in this country. It was asserted that in 1861 there were three firms manufacturing worsted goods, and they consumed 300,000 pounds of wool; now there are 25 mills in operation, the yearly consumption of which is not far from 12,000,000 pounds. A resolution was adopted recommending all buyers to urge the growers to bring their tags carefully tub-washed and loose to market, outside of the fleece, and agreeing to pay for them the price of the balance of the clip, provided they are in equal condition.

The Poison-Oak of California.

In California it grows to a height of from six to ten feet, and in some localities covers small hill-sides with one tangled wall of its vines. It is a handsome shrub, resembling somewhat in appearance the wild currant, having slightly corrugated green leaves with a purplish tinge near the tops, and a very small flower. I have seen people so poisoned by simply standing near it, and breathing the wind which had passed over it, without ever touching it, that their features were for the time fairly obliterated, they were rendered blind and deaf for weeks and never fairly recovered from its effects. It is perfectly harmless to all dumb animals, and many people can handle it with impunity. For myself I have handled it, chewed it, and marked my clothing with it—its juice leaves an indelible black stain—and never experienced the slightest evil effect from it. I would not recommend the handling of it by anybody even in its dried state, and think it would be best to exhibit it under glass.

Dr. McCosh, the Scottish metaphysician and divine, who has just been elected President of Princeton College, New Jersey, is one of the most accomplished modern scholars in his special department of mental and moral philosophy. He is the author of a number of masterly works, some of which have become text books, and all of which exhibit in perfection those high qualities for which the Scottish metaphysicians and theologians have been distinguished for a century past. Dr. McCosh will give great strength to the already eminent Faculty of Princeton. He comes to this country from Belfast, (Ireland,) where he has held a Professorship for some years.

A gentleman from Tennessee tells us that the recent incident of a negro shooting one of a gang of Kuklux ghosts who came to his cabin to assault him, has done more to allay Kukluxism in the State than all the efforts of Gen. Thomas, Parson Brownlow and the local authorities. It has taught the "Klan" that there may be danger on both sides, and has given the blacks courage to confront their cowardly persecutors; and in this way, we are told, has had a most disheartening effect on the Kuklux.

How to Get Sleep.

This is to many persons a matter of high importance. Nervous persons, who are troubled with wakefulness and excitability, usually have a strong tendency of blood on the brain, with cold extremities. The pressure of the blood on the brain keeps it in a stimulated or wakeful state and the pulsations in the head are often painful. Let them rise and chafe the body and extremities with brush or towel, or rub smartly with the hands to promote circulation, and withdraw the excessive amount of blood from the brain, and they will fall asleep in a few moments. A cold bath, or a sponge bath, and rubbing, or a good run or a rapid walk in the open air, or a going up and down stairs a few times just before retiring, will aid in equalizing circulation and promote sleep. These rules are simple and easy of application in the castle or cabin, and may minister to the comfort of thousands who would freely expend money for an anodyne to promote "Nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep."

There is a gentleman in England who proposes to teach the people the Chinese language. He encourages them by stating that the grammar is rather difficult. Every word may be viewed as a separate sentence, for it may be interpreted as a verb, a substantive, an adjective, or a grammatical particle, its import being partly determined by its place in the sentence, and partly, when spoken, by its tone or accent. But no Chinese understands the spoken language unless aided by repetitions, expletives, pauses and gestures. A man who is reading aloud frequently delineates the character in the air with his fan, to prevent any ambiguity of meaning. In conversation this ambiguity is chiefly avoided by the use of expletives. Foo, for instance, means father, and seventy or eighty things as well. A Chinaman, therefore, wishing to express the idea, father, says foo-chin (kindred). So we have rite, wright, write, right, etc.

In Putnam's Magazine, for May, Mr. C. W. Elliott gives a sketch of life in San Francisco which is not very gossipy but statistical. One of the hotels there must be a paradise for confirmed old bachelors. Mr. Elliott says: "But the 'What Cheer' hotel is a Yankee shoot grafted upon a California stock, and proves a most profitable growth. All is done for cash, and your bed is paid for before you get into it. A large restaurant supplies four thousand meals a day at prices from fifteen cents upward. Ample means are provided for you to black your own boots free; and the library, of five thousand volumes, is open to all. There is no bar. The house has one more peculiarity—no woman is allowed within it; the servants are all men, and no man's wife can sleep with him at this house. It pays at the rate of $30,000 to $40,000 per year."

The Superintendent of the Erie Railway, in his official report of the accident a Carr's Rock, says: "In all, nineteen persons were killed outright, and five others have since died of the injuries—making twenty-four deaths. About sixty others were injured, some slightly and some seriously, though it is hoped no more deaths will result from the injuries received by the accident. The loss by the breaking up of cars is estimated at $25,000."

An officer of the Pennsylvania Railroad says that on Wednesday last took place perhaps the largest freight movement in the history of the road. There were 1,337 freight cars (eight wheel) passing Mifflin for the twenty-four hours ending at six p. m., of which 789 were loaded. This account does not include passenger, baggage and express cars, nor cars coming in at Marysville for the East.

The highest income return in St. Louis is that of Capt. John G. Coplin, $132,000. This was made out of contracts to transport Government freight to the military posts in the Upper Missouri. Wm. M. McPherson, Coplin's partner, reports $106,000; John J. Roe, the heaviest pork packer, $32,000. Robert Campbell, owner of the Southern Hotel, $64,000; James H. Lucas, the largest land owner, $128,000.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

The Dispatch and its "Fore-paws."

The Dispatch gave the Forepaugh Menagerie a broadside yesterday, but crushing as the effect of such a discharge of heavy metal must have been, the establishment was open as usual yesterday and last night, and what seems more singular still, the audience was one of the largest and most fashionable that has assembled in a Menagerie this season. We give a "specimen brick" or two from our neighbor's article as showing the feeling under which the Dispatch critic writes. Speaking of the great tragedian elephant, "Romeo," he says: "Think of it! This huge beast, with a degree of strength that utterly dwarfs that of man, and with a share of intelligence that teaches him his power, and how to appreciate and revenge an injury, is driven into a crowded show, hot from a conflict with his keepers. Here, the subdued, but not reconciled, monster goes unshackled into a canvass-covered arena, where men, women and children by thousands are piled upon crazy seats around a temporary amphitheater, and he is forced to perform feats that are, at best, distasteful to him. A single sweep of his untrammeled trunk would bring to the ground the canvass roof and involve human beings and wild beasts in a blazing wreck, or if he chose to vent his fury upon the audience, fifty keepers could not restrain him from dashing pell-mell among his helpless victims. Menageries are very good, practical schools; but we may well doubt the propriety of obtaining a knowledge of the habits of the elephant at so fearful a risk as that incurred in recent experiences with the monster 'Romeo.' 'Romeo' is the chief attraction at Forepaugh's circus, which opens here to-day, and we give the above article for the purpose of warning the public against putting themselves in the way of getting crushed to death by the unruly brute. It would be a terrible thing were one of his mad fits to seize him while performing in the ring with hundreds of women and children around him; yet the temper of the brute appears so uncertain that there is no telling when he may make a raid on the audience. We are rather fond of circus sports, but we think, under the present circumstances, we would give Forepaugh's establishment a wide berth, at least so long as such a demonstrative performer as 'Romeo' remains its chief attraction."

This is certainly "hefty;" but the disciples of the Menagerie are used to such assaults, and Mr. "Romeo," the elephant, ferocious though he be, will doubtless survive the infliction. By the way, we have observed that the Menagerie does not advertise with the Dispatch, and it is also well understood that there has been no complimentary tickets left at that establishment. We would not be guilty of intimating that the Dispatch, in its criticisms on the poor elephant, would at all be influenced by considerations so trifling as these; but it does seem a little singular that our neighbors could never detect those shortcomings on the part of "Romeo" of which they now complain so loudly, before the little courtesies referred to were withheld.

The Second Ward Grant Club—Col. Wm. Phillips Again Put Forward for Congress.

A very large meeting of the members of the Second Ward Grant Club, and of the Republican voters of that ward, was held last night at their rooms, No. 60 Smithfield street, Thomas Steel, Esq., President, presiding, and T. H. Phelps, Esq., Secretary. Reports from the Executive and Finance Committees were read and approved. These documents show the old banner ward of the city fully organized for the approaching campaign, and, making an estimate from the statistics furnished, we can safely anticipate increased Republican majorities henceforward in that ward. A committee was appointed to procure a suite of rooms to be occupied by the club during the campaign as a reading room and Republican headquarters. The Congressional question was fully discussed, and the following resolution, offered by Mr. James Vick, was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That we, the Republican voters of the Second ward, in meeting assembled, do again call upon Col. William Phillips in most earnest terms,—notwithstanding his previous public declination of a similar requisition made upon him by his fellow-citizens,—to permit the use of his name as a Congressional candidate in the Twenty-second District, subject to the decision of the forthcoming Union Republican Convention.

On motion of T. W. Davis, Esq., a Committee of twelve, including President Steel, was appointed to wait on Col. Phillips and notify him of the action of the meeting. The Committee appointed by the Chair consists of the following gentlemen: T. W. Davis, William Woods, David F. McKee, James Vick, Thomas McKibben, James Black, Edward House, R. H. Wilson, T. H. Phelps, T. Ewing and J. A. Floyd. They will wait on Col. Phillips this morning at ten o'clock, and report his answer at an adjourned meeting to be held at the same place this evening.

Another Bawdy House Case.

Prosecutions for keeping bawdy houses have become quite frequent of late, which would indicate an improvement in the morals of a certain class of our citizens, and an increase of immorality in another class. Which have the preponderance we are unable to say. We would undoubtedly like to say the former, but fear the latter have. Many of the prosecutions are instigated by selfish, and in some cases, mercenary motives, and not with any desire to do good by suppressing a prevailing evil. Yet there are some of them doubtless made with the purest motives. One more case was added to the list yesterday by Hannah McGarran, who made information before Alderman McMasters, charging Fanny Foster and Barbara Millbaugh with keeping a disorderly bawdy house. The deponent occupies the upper portion of a house on Poplar alley, in the Sixth ward, and the accused occupy the ground floor, where it is alleged persons of doubtful reputation assemble nightly, to the great annoyance of the citizens of that neighborhood generally, and the prosecutrix particularly. The deponent in her statement named a number of persons who visit the place, prominent among whom are some of the police and an up-town constable. They will doubtless be called upon to testify in the case. The accused were arrested, and after a hearing were held to bail in the sum of five hundred dollars each, in default of which they were committed to jail to answer at Court.

United States District Court—Judge McCandless.

Court met at ten o'clock on Thursday morning, when the case of F. B. Moore vs. Joseph Cole, in bankruptcy, was resumed, and is still in progress.

Petitions for final discharge were filed by Hiram M. Goff, of Bradford county; Rufus D. Clark, of Susquehanna county; Thomas Doulin, Susquehanna county; Joseph Credford, Bradford county; Joseph Knauf, Luzerne county.

Petitions for adjudication in bankruptcy were filed by John Richards, of Wilkesbarre, Luzerne county, and L. M. Baldwin, of Brooklyn, Susquehanna county.

Choice Literature.—The book fanciers and reading masses will remember that the sale of a very superior collection of French, English and American literary works of standard authors, takes place this evening at the auction rooms of Smithson, Vanhook & McClelland, Nos. 55 and 57 Fifth street. A finer collection of rare and valuable works has seldom been offered.

The resolution on Temperance, published in the proceedings of the preceding day, was taken up and adopted.

On motion Rev. John Marsh and Rev. D. Berger were appointed delegates to the National Temperace Convention at Cleveland, Ohio, with instructions to present to that body the resolution on Temperance Adopted.

On motion the Secretary was ordered to forward a copy of the resolution to the National Temperance Advocate, with a request that it be published in that paper.

A resolution was reported by the Committee in regard to the relation and duties of the Christian Church to secret societies, which was under discussion when the Convention adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Convention was called to order at two o'clock by the chairman, and the usual religious exercises were conducted by Rev. Mr. Smith.

At the conclusion of the religious exercises the Secretary read the credentials of delegates from Sparta, Illinois.

The Chair announced that the resolution which was under discussion at the time of adjournment was in order.

On motion, it was postponed for the present in order to have several letters read which had been addressed to the Convention.

On motion, the question of selecting a place for the next annual meeting, which had been postponed at a previous session, was taken up and discussed at considerable length. Rochester, N. Y., Oberlin, Ohio, Hillsdale, Michigan, and Pittsburgh, were placed in nomination. After several votes it was decided that the Convention should be held at Oberlin, Ohio.

Mr. Wardner moved that a Committee be appointed to prepare an address to be submitted to the National M. E. Conference now in session in Chicago for their consideration and adoption. The motion was lost.

The resolution offered by Rev. Dr. Pressly, at the morning session, was then taken up and discussed at considerable length, after which it was again laid on the table.

On motion of Rev. Dr. Blanchard the Committee on Publications was instructed to employ Rev. Mr. Baird or some other suitable person to assist in the distribution of books and tracts.

The resolution in relation to the publication of a paper was then taken up, and after a lengthy discussion, was adopted.

On motion, the Executive Committee was instructed to take steps to have a paper established at once.

The Secretary then read a memorial from H. C. Patsey, T. M. Johnson and Thomas Donahue, proposing to deliver lectures before the Convention on the secrets of K. G. C.'s, the K. K. K's. and Fenianism. The communication was laid on the table.

The resolution presented by Rev. Dr. Pressly was taken up and, after considerable discussion, in which personalities were indulged in, the resolution was slightly amended and adopted.

On motion, a Committee was appointed to present the resolution as adopted to the M. E. Conference now in session at Chicago.

After some unimportant business, the Convention adjourned.

EVENING SESSION.

The Convention reassembled at eight o'clock, and the usual devotional exercises were gone through with.

The Chairman stated that the meeting was ready to proceed to business.

Rev. George B. Clark offered the following, which was adopted:

Resolved, That Rev. D. J. Marsh be requested to present to Ecclesiastical bodies, Churches and Temperance organizations the views of this Convention respecting the influence of secret organizations on the causes of temperance.

On motion of Rev. Mr. Gowdy, Dr. Cooper, of Philadelphia, was requested to prepare for publication, remarks made by him at the morning session.

On motion, a committee of four was appointed to collect money to defray the expenses of publishing the minutes of the Association. Seventy-eight dollars and twenty cents was collected in cash, in addition to which one hundred and sixty-four copies were ordered, to be paid for when received.

The address prepared by the Committee on Resolutions, which was presented at the morning session and laid over, was taken up and read by Rev. Joel Blanchard.

The subject matter of the address is that secret societies are instigated by the devil.

Rev. Mr. Roberts was called upon and related a circumstance of a murder committed in Bristol, Pa., which was related to him by a woman on her death bed.

Short addresses were made by several of the delegates, after which the report was adopted.

A resolution of thanks was tendered to the citizens of Pittsburgh, and to the Committee of Arrangements, for kindness received at their hands during the Convention.

Rev. Mr. Gowdy offered the following:

Resolved, That whilst we declare our determination to maintain a decided and continuous opposition to all secret societies as deistical antagonistic to Christianity and tending to the loosing of moralties, we regard the large portion of the members as well meaning but mistaken persons. Toward them all we cherish the most kindly Christian feeling and ask them to calmly consider the exception we take to their Orders.

The resolution was adopted without debate.

The Chairman in a brief address thanked the Convention for courtesies extended to him while presiding over their deliberations, after which the closing prayer was offered by Rev. Joel Blanchard, and the long metre Doxology sung, when the Convention adjourned.

Christ Church, Allegheny.

Than this rejuvenated old church, there is probably, at present, not one more beautiful in the two cities. All who recollect the old rusty looking building which for so many years seemed to slumber in its place, must be astounded at this new result. A handsome gothic church, grey in color, fresh in appearance, and surmounted by a florid French belfry now help to adorn and beautify the East Common, but the interior is more beautiful. Through a neat and well lighted vestibule, we yesterday entered the church; a large and commodious nave, with nine broad gothic windows, filled with beautiful stained glass and covered with a vaulted ceiling, has taken place of the old auditorium. One hundred and forty-four pews, divided by three isles and cushioned with bright crimson damask, afford ample accommodations for seven hundred people. Crimson and black carpets cover the floors, and at night eight candelebras, each containing five burners, and six brackets, each with three burners, light up the nave. A white iron screen, of beautiful and delicate pattern divides the nave from the choir which is on the left side of the church, and in which a beautiful organ painted blue and gold will be placed next week. The chancel window is one of the most superb in the city. In the centre is a kneeling figure of Christ, while numerous ecclesiastical emblems adorn the surrounding panes. A handsome carpet covers the floor of the church, on either side of the window are walnut tablets containing the Apostle's creed and Our Lord's prayer. Four double stalls, gothic in style stand against the walls, and the handsome pulpit and reading desk are of oiled walnut. Around the parapet of the former are the words "We preach Christ crucified," in raised oak letters. To the right of the church in a lofty niche stands the font which is the handsomest in the city and perfectly unique in style although it is very nearly the same as some in European Cathedrals. It is of carved wood adorned with ecclesiastical emblems and surmounted by a towering Gothic spire, on which rests a white dove. The whole font is probably fifteen feet high, and is a marvel of grace and beauty. No praise could be too high for the interior of this church, and we may perhaps be considered hypocritical for suggesting that the exterior would have been much more to our taste if a Gothic spire had crowned the church and not a French one. The gentlemen to whose liberality we are indebted for this handsome edition to our list of sacred edifices must feel proud of their work, and particularly must those gentlemen who compose the working vestry, congratulate themselves. They are, Messrs. De Haven, Ralston, John Phillips, James W. Sewell, Wm. McKnight, Tunis K. McKnight, J. Haworth and John Hutchison. The contract for the building was filled by J. B. Chambers; the painting was by Messrs. Nelson & Fox; the chancel window is by Thomas Fulton; plaster and stucco by Col. D. B. Morris; frescoing by J. C. Michel; gas fixtures by Miskey, Merrill & Thackera, of Philadelphia; Messrs. Roberts & Roenig furnished the cushions and stools; the carpets are from McCallum's, and the upholstery is the work of Messrs. Holtzman & Wiederholdt. Pabst & Krauss, of Philadelphia, made the pulpit, lectern and stalls. All of the work seems to be excellently and handsomely done.

The rejuvenated old church will be again opened on Sunday next, when the Rev. Mr. Allen, the new rector, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Page, who so long and so ably filled the pulpit, will officiate.

A Valuable Work.

Eighty years progress of the United States by eminent literary men.

This compendium of national statistics forms a valuable hand-book of reference, to which all who possess it will have frequent occasion to turn for information in respect to the progress and condition of the great elements of growth and developments in the history of the United States during eighty years past. The great variety and importance of the subjects, the felicitious style in which they are clothed, and the numerous engravings render this work peculiarly attractive. They embrace subjects deeply interesting to all classes of the community. Every profession and calling is here exhibited, with the latest improvements in every department of industry, science and art. The advancement made during eighty years in the American Republic is unparalleled in the history of the world, and will remain a proof to all coming generations of the blessings of free institutions and the capability of man under a system of self-government for an almost indefinite perior of progress in civilization. This work should be in every library, public and private, and in the hands of every citizen. The agent, Mr. N. B. Perkins, is now canvassing this city for the purpose of obtaining orders for the book, and we trust he will meet with that success which the rare merits of the work demands.

Late Publications.

We have received from D. Appleton & Co., of New York, through Mr. Henry Miner, Fifth, street, "Our Mutual Friend," "Hard Times," "Bleak House and "Little Dorritt," of the popular cheap edition of Dickens, ranging in price from twenty-five to thirty-five cents per volume. Also, "Antiguay," and "Old Mortality," of the Waverly Novel series, twenty-five cents each. Both these editions are neat, compact and surprisingly cheap. The Waverly series is beautifully illustrated.

T. B. Peterson & Brothers, Philadelphia, sends us "Message from the Sea," and "Somebody's Luggage," two of their cheap editions of Dickens' works, sold at the low price of twenty-five cents per volume. Also received "The Abbott," twenty cent. edition of Waverly Novels. These editions have been very popular and have had a wide sale. Gildenfennv, Fifth street, can supply copies of both editions.

Assault and Battery.—Owen M'Gahan made information before Alderman McMasters, yesterday, charging John O'Connor with assault and battery. The parties, it appears, were both drunk on Wednesday night, and went into a saloon on Pennsylvania avenue, when a difficulty arose between them. They then went out on the side-walk, where a regular "mill" ensued, in which M'Gahan was badly used up. He was arrested, and after a hearing, in default of the required bail for his appearance at Court, he was consigned to the care of the Warden of the county jail.

Panhandle Luxuries.

A very handsomely appointed train of entirely new cars came up to the Union Depot on Wednesday evening, fresh in all the bravery of varnish and decoration, from the shops of the company at Steubenville. The train comprised one sleeping and two day coaches, express car and baggage car, and they were really most creditable specimens of the skilful handiwork of the builders. All the latest improvements and the most suitable appliances, whether for comfort or safety, in the internal arrangements and in the more important essentials of strength and solidity, were prominently noticeable in each of these palatial carriages. The train bore westward, on its first through trip, at 9:30 a. m. yesterday, with a number of invited guests, principally members of the city press, who, no doubt, passed the day in wondering why a road so well appointed and which, in its alignment, schedules and connections, has no superior and few if any rivals, should remain content to be popularly known by a name of such homely familiarity. Success to the "Panhandle" railway!

Concert—A Grand Success.

The first grand concert given by the First Reformed Presbyterian Sabbath School, of Allegheny, last evening, at Excelsior Hall, was one of the most successful ones we have ever attended. The hall was crowded to its utmost capacity, and the scholars in their performances reflected great credit to themselves and their teachers. To-night they will give their second concert, and will be assisted by the Allegheny Quartette Club. The tableaux of "Ahasueris and Queen Esther" last evening was a most beautiful one, and at the earnest solicitation of its many admirers will be repeated again this evening. The singing was delightful, the scholars evincing rare culture and training, while the tableaux of "Old Woman in the Shoe" was rendered with much spirit and humor. Let all attend to-night and enjoy the feast of mirth, song and sentiment to be afforded.

A Valuable Work.

We are indebted to Messrs. Croft & Phillips, the energetic real estate and insurance agents, whose office is located at No. 139 Fourth street, for a copy of the May issue of their Real Estate Register. It is a neatly gotten up and valuable work, containing descriptions of farms, mills, stores, hotels, tanneries, salt works, Western lands, city and suburban property, and should be in the hands of every one contemplating the purchase or sale of real estate. Messrs. Croft & Phillips are extensively engaged in the real estate business, and are the only firm in the city that publish a work of this kind. Persons desiring a copy of the Register can have one by calling at their office or by sending them their address. The Register has an extensive circulation, and as an advertising medium for the sale of real estate has no superior. "Don't fail to get one."

Bitten by a Dog.

John William Woods, son of Atelia Woods, residing on Centre avenue, was severely bitten by a ferocious dog yesterday. The dog is owned by a Mr. Shinn, on Tannehill street, near Webster, along which the boy was passing when the dog came out of the house and caught him by the leg, tearing his clothes and lacerating the flesh terribly. Mrs. Woods went to the Mayor's office and made information charging Mr. Shinn with keeping a ferocious dog. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Mr. Shinn. The dog is a terrier, and is said to be a ferocious brute and the terror of the entire neighborhood.

In Custody.

We stated some time since that information had been made before the Mayor, by Mr. Kauffman, of the firm of Kauffman, Openheimer & Co., clothiers, of this city, charging John D. Vagan, of Annandale, Butler county, with obtaining goods under false pretences. A warrant was issued for his arrest but has never been executed. A petition in bankruptcy was also filed against him by the firm, and he was arrested by the United States Deputy Marshal, in whose custody he now is. The Mayor's warrant is in the hands of officer Irwin, who will execute it as soon as released by the United States authorities.

Railway Accident Incident.

It is an actual fact that on a train of cars recently wrecked the only thing saved from damage and destruction was a large Saratoga trunk which, on close inspection, proved to contain the wardrobe of a newly married bride on her bridal tour. This trunk was examined closely, and need we say that it turned out to be one of Liebler's—everybody knows Joseph Liebler, the proprietor of the premium trunk factory, No. 104 Wood street—manufacture. It was made to stand rough handling, and it effectually accomplished that purpose. Liebler manufactures out of the best material, employs the best workmen and sells at the cheapest prices. He deals in all sorts of trunks, carpet sacks, valises, &c., &c. Give him a call for anything in his line.

Committed.—William Mozier, charged with removing goods to defraud his creditors, in connection with James Roesher, who was committed several days since, an account of which we published, was arrested yesterday and taken before Alderman McMasters, who, in default of the required bail, committed him to jail to answer at Court.

Mr. Hugh Kennedy, of West Elizabeth, yesterday renewed his subscription to the GAZETTE for the thirtieth time. Mr. Kennedy is himself eighty-four years old, enjoys a vigorous green old age, and hopes to live to read the good old GAZETTE many years more. We heartily join him in this hope.

At Auction Prices.—Any article in the line of Boots, Shoes, Carpets. Dry Goods, Shawls, Quilts, Shirts, Collars, Umbrellas, Cutlery, Hats, Fancy Goods and Notions, can be purchased at private sale at auction prices, at Palmer & Phillips' salesrooms, Opera House Building, 60 Fifth street. Call and see.

Attractive Book Sale.—This evening, at 7½ o'clock, at Masonic Hall Auction Rooms, 55 and 57 Fifth street, will be sold, without reserve, a choice collection of standard works. Books on inspection to-day. See advertisement of Smithson, Vanhook & McClelland, Auctioneers.

STATE NEWS.

—The Harrisburg Union says: Yesterday, whilst the street cleaners were at work in the alley near our office, they found it necessary to remove the cap stone over the junction of the water way with the sewer. In removing the earth (the accumulation of years) from the top of the stone, one of the workmen exhumed what proved, upon a clear, searching scrutiny, to be a coin of very ancient origin. So ancient was it that only the "oldest inhabitants" could recall to mind the era when the coin spoken of was in general circulation. After considerable discussion as to the denomination and value of the coin, it was taken to one who is considered quite an antiquarian, being a man of finished education and ripe years, who, after almost exhausting his skill and learning, pronounced it to be an old five cent piece or half dime, an ancient coin much used as money in the United States at a very remote period. Much surprise and gratification was expressed by those who enjoyed the privilege of examining this relic of the past ages. It will be preserved for deposit in the cabinet of the most reliable society of antiquarians to be found on this continent, where it may be seen by those curious to know what kind of money our forefathers jingled in their pockets or salted away to be enjoyed by their descendants.

—The Johnstown Democrat says: Two weeks ago a farmer in Paint township, Somerset county, was attracted to a spot in the woods by the violent barking of his dog. He found that the dog had started a large bear, which soon escaped out of sight. The next day our friend, properly armed, visited the bear's winter quarters, and found Mrs. Bruin absent, but three cubs cosily enjoying their home. The cubs were captured, and a trap, which was carefully covered, was set for the old bear. Bruin was too sharp to be caught, for on returning to the den or cave, the trap was found carefully uncovered, and as carefully unsprung.

One of the cubs was brought to town, and an effort made to sell it to the Show on Thursday. This attempt to "bear" the market is the first of which we have heard. We are informed it is usual to "bull" it at least twice a week.

—The Meadville Republican of Wednesday says: About three o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the round house of the Oil Creek and B. & O. R. R's. Eight engines and one baggage car belonging to these roads were burned. The telegraph office adjoining was also destroyed, as well as twelve shanties and contents belonging to employees, who barely escaped with their lives. About twelve cars belonging to the A. & G. W. R. and Erie Railway were also destroyed. The fire is supposed to have originated in an oil barrel and to have been caused by a watchman using a lighted torch to ascertain the quantity of oil in the barrel. The loss is estimated at $100,000.

—The Indiana Iron Works, situated eight miles west of Johnstown, have been finally abandoned. They were erected about twenty-five years ago, by Mr. Henry Noble. The forge has not been in use for a long time. The property was purchased by Elias Baker, and since his death the furnace has been operated by his son, Dr. S. C. Baker, of Blair county. The ore for several years has been transported over the railroad from Blair county. The abandonment of these works will throw the manager and a number of men out of employment, and also leave a number of houses tenantless.

—A correspondent writing from Mauch Chunk to the Altoona Tribune says: Forty-five miles of steel rails are laid on the Lehigh and Susquehanna Railroad, connecting with the North Pennsylvania at Bethlehem. There is not one broken rail caused by the trains between Mauch Chunk and Easton during the winter. One hundred and forty-four wheeled coal cars, carrying 770 tons of coal, have been hauled over eighty-five miles of the Lehigh and Susquehanna Railroad by a single engine.

—The Altoona Tribune says: Our distinguished fellow-citizen, Hon. L. W. Hall, returned to this place, on Tuesday morning last, from his trip through Europe, and as was fitting, a few of his friends tendered him a reception at the Logan House, in the evening. Quite a goodly number were present, and at a few minutes past ten the company sat down to a splendid repast.

—The temperance people in Huntingdon, Mifflin and Juniata counties, are working earnestly for the advancement of their cause, and temperance meetings are announced in almost every locality where a "corporal's guard" can be brought together.

—The streams in the vicinity of Bellefonte are said to literally abound with trout and other fish, and the disciples of "old Isaak," thereabout, are "making hay while the sun shines," and gathering in a rich harvest of the "speckled beauties."

—The Huntingdon county folks are making strenuous exertions to build a railroad from Huntingdon, along the line of Stone Creek, to McAlevy's Fort, and are holding meetings for the purpose of raising subscriptions to their capital stock.

—The Centre County Agricultural Society have invested ten thousand dollars in the purchase of grounds for the erection of permanent buildings, near Bellefonte.

—A young son of William Roberts, of Sharon, died quite suddenly on Sabbath of last week from lock-jaw, caused by running a nail in his foot a few days previous.

—The Presbyterians of Hollidaysburg are going to erect a twenty-five thousand dollar church, and the Presbyterians of Bellefonte propose doing the same.

Effect of the Alabama Bill.

It is becoming daily more and more apparent that the entire action of Congress concerning Alabama, in what is known as the Spalding Bill, is having a very sanitary effect on the people of the South. They begin to see that their active hostility to Congressional reconstruction is futile and foolish. It increases the disadvantages of their situation with no corresponding benefit. If they must have a provisional government based on the very constitution they now labor to reject, giving all the offices to the party of the constitution, what doth it profit to fight against the reconstruction of the State on that basis? This consideration seems likely to produce a new wonder in Mississippi, viz: The application of a few grains of common sense to politics. So long as they could hold nearly all the offices of the State under Mr. Johnson's provisional government, there was some apparent sense in holding on to that, and opposing the new constitution, and the case to them is materially changed. This action of Congress will, it is believed from present appearances, operate favorably in the coming campaign.

It gives the opponents of reconstruction all the disadvantages of the new government, with no benefit from that quarter to effect them. This action of Congress was both wise and called for by the circumstances. But from whatever cause, the tone and apparent temper of the rebel press is evidently modified to some extent.—Vicksburg Cor. Cin. Com.

THE Montgomery (Alabama) Advertiser, which is edited by a son of President TYLER (the son who signed the Confederate currency), is good enough to tell us, in italics, what the Southern whites intend to do if the Democrats come into power. The avowal reads thus:

"If negro governments are forced upon us, in defiance of the Constitution of the United States, by the pretended laws of a Radical Congress, enforced by negro votes in the midst of the terrors of bayonets and drum-head courts-martial, we mean, without doubt, to overthrow them in the very hour the Northern and Western Democracy shall expel the Radical Catalines from the National Capitol. It must be this, or denationalization."

Absurd Election Bet.

A correspondent at Manchester, N. H., writes under date of May 1, as follows:

Probably the most absurd election bet that was ever made in New Hampshire was paid this morning. Mr. George Griffin, of Auburn, agreed with A. C. Wallace, Esq., of this city, to crawl from the Manchester House to the City Hotel, a distance of a quarter of a mile, on condition that Governor Harriman was re-elected.

If he failed to crawl, he was to forfeit $100. Mr. Griffin having the choice of time, appointed Friday, May 1, at ten A. M. At an early hour Elm street assumed an unusually lively appearance, and by ten o'clock every available window, balcony and house-top was filled to witness this novel sight. So many people were never known to assemble there before. Fourth of July processions, circuses, &c., were completely eclipsed by the present crowd.

Messrs. Wallace and Griffin both had rooms at the "City," and previous to the start, entertained their friends in a happy manner. At precisely 10:30 the cornet band appeared in front of the hotel. At the same time Mr. G. came out to commence his task. An elegant new barouche, drawn by four dark chestnut horses, contained his Excellency ex-Governor Smyth, with Mr. Wallace standing on the front seat carrying a silken flag, supported by the rotund form of John B. Clark, who, all smiles, appeared to enjoy it more than any one else.

Following this was a hack containing friends of both parties. Mr. Griffin is a man about forty-five years old, five feet ten inches in height, with full whiskers; was dressed in a white shirt, light pants, and red sash worn over the shoulder. Wore slippers on his feet, with huge gauntlet buck gloves on his hands. He was allowed to rest four or five times. The time occupied was little over half an hour. On his arrival at the Manchester House, cheers were given with a will for "the man who honorably pays his debts." After this Mr. Griffin was taken into the barouche and escorted back to the hotel.

WE suppose Train re-leased the Dublin jail on the first of May, though he has failed to telegraph the fact. It is a snug and cleanly tenement, and the rent is not high. Besides, the hospitality of the Dublin people has been put to a touching test. They continue to entertain Train whether he will or no.—Chicago Post.

"Look on this Picture, then on that,"

Here you behold the infirm step,
The pallid cheek, wasting form,
Untasted food, and a social atmosphere
Poisoned with the tales of aches, pains,
Sleepless nights and mental despondency.
There, laughing health, sparkling eyes,
Elastic step, craving appetite, forgotten cares,
Genial thought and ambitious resolves,
Show the contrast and mark the picture.
